Mr. Dial's Girl Workers Concerning Holy Rivers Metals and Men Mixed A Special Tornado

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

Senator Dial wants Congress to impeach Judge Landis. More easily said than done. Judge Landis has a better idea. He suggests investigating the mills of Senator Dial to find out what wages the honorable Senator pays little girls that work for his profit. Senator Dial will probably find more inclination to impeach a Senator for making money out of child labor than to impeach a judge for openly accepting a baseball job.

The Capper bills provide for physical training, periodical physical examination, teaching children to stand and sit correctly and otherwise improving the race. Someone invites all of his fellows to attack the Capper bill, thus defending "the right of individuals to select the class of treatment desired for cure of and protection from disease."

That is what they say on the banks of the Ganges when they set afloat on the river bodies of cholera and other plague victims, then bathe in the "holy river" and swallow the water. Ladies and gentlemen on the Ganges and similar intellectuals in China and other plague centres, strongly object to any interference with their individual rights. Nevertheless, real science will eventually clean up Asiatic plague centres and will also fight disease here in the only real way, which is the scientific way.

The Jordan, another holy river, which has occasionally spread disease when people carried off its waters bottled up, is now to be made scientifically useful. A dam will store up the water and yield power enough to supply light and surplus power to Palestine. That is the best use to make of a holy river: Put it to work.

News important to the future of the flying machine announces the discovery at Montreal of a new metal alloy containing magnesium, one-third lighter than aluminum and as strong as steel.

Scientists have done wonders mixing the metals—magnesium, vanadium, tungsten and others with iron as base, increasing strength, lightness and other good qualities.

Some day men will do with the different races of human beings what they now do with metals. They will have scientific mixtures, well thought out, producing better results than any we have ever seen, and this may solve the race and race prejudice problems. Each race by itself, Celtic, Germanic, Latin, Jewish, has defects that can be minimized or eliminated by wise mixture.

A tornado struck a negro settlement near Oconee, Georgia. And last Saturday thirty of its victims, twenty-nine colored and one white, were buried. The next day the Reverend Dan Davis, colored, who with his wife barely escaped destruction, preached on "Sin and Tornadoes."

The reverend gentleman discovered that before the tornado came, there was a dance at Gardner, the negro settlement, and not all the dancers behaved as Christians ladies and gentlemen should. Afterward, there was a free-for-all fight and some shooting.

Then came the tornado. The Reverend Mr. Davis knows and can prove that the Ruler of the universe watched the dance, was much annoyed and acted swiftly with his tornado. It is true that he killed a few that did not attend the dance, and missed some of those that did attend, but the needed lesson is said by the reverend gentleman to have done much good, enough to justify the deaths of those that didn't dance.

The interesting part of this is that only a few hundred years ago, almost everybody believed what the Reverend Dan Davis believes now.

The Governor of Georgia asks Mr. Burleson to let the parcel post deliver packages from stores inside city limits. No one is more interested than is Mr. Burleson in improving parcels delivery by government. Nobody has done more than he to increase parcel post efficiency.

If he can do it legally Mr. Burleson should arrange for parcel distribution in cities. It would mean economy for merchants and customers, increased postoffice revenue and profit and there is no argument against it.

Will Hays, the next Postmaster General, should have this in mind in case Mr. Burleson fails to accomplish it in his few remaining days. For twenty stores to send twenty wagons to the same block is economic waste, bad for everybody in the country.

It is the business of kings, clergymen and editors to know what interests the people from week to week. King George of England, probably with the help of others, keeps himself informed. In his latest speech from the throne he put ahead of all other questions the lack of employment. His advisors know that workleseness means restlessness and will take no answer except a job. This country needs a government interested in home lack of employment, at least as much as in Czecho-Slovakia. It is to be hoped that it will have such a government under Harding.

If it has not, it will have trouble.

Sandwich, Feb. 18.—Four men, members of the crew of the barge Museoneteog, had a narrow escape from death today when fire was discovered in the forward part of the ship.

They were rescued by Captain Chris Sullivan and crew of the Coast Guard Station No. 21.

The barge was at anchor inside of the harbor here.

Shortly after 5 o'clock today the fire was noticed by a guard. He notified Captain Sullivan, who at once started for the ship in a lifeboat.

He aroused the sleeping men and

Why Don't You Answer These Questions, Mr. Allen?

Bank Commissioner Allen, on arrival at his office at 9 o'clock today, was questioned by a Boston American representative, with the following result:

Q.—Simon Swig charges you with a conspiracy to ruin his bank. Is that so? A.—I have nothing to say.

Q.—How badly is the capital impaired? A.—I have nothing to say.

Q.—What are the violations of the banking laws? A.—I have nothing to say.

Q.—What were the unsound banking practices of which you charge the bank was guilty? A.—I have nothing to say.

Q.—Who is the bank examiner Swig charges with trying to ruin his bank? A.—I have nothing to say.

Q.—You told us last September that the Tremont Trust Company was sound. These violations and unsound practices must have occurred since that time? A.—I have nothing to say.

Q.—The report of Swig's bank last November showed he had deposits in the savings department of $11,700,000 and in his commercial department of about $5,000,000. His personal statement last night shows deposits to be about $13,000,000. Had there been a gradual withdrawal of funds since that time? A.—I have nothing to say.

Q.—The men on the street are saying this is a conspiracy to put the control of the banks in a few hands? A.—I have nothing to say.

HEARST COUNSEL IN CONFERENCE ON LOANS

Arguments for Writ Enjoining Secretary of Treasury Set for Monday

Washington, Feb. 18.—William A. Deford, personal counsel for William R. Hearst and general counsel for the Hearst organization, arrived in the city today and was in conference during the day with Messrs. Ansell and Bailey in preparation for their argument which is set for Monday next in support of Mr. Hearst's application for a writ enjoining the Secretary of the Treasury from making any further loans to foreign governments.

Counsel, at the breaking up of their conference, stated that Mr. Hearst's suit had met with a very wide popular interest not only because of the very great importance to the taxpaying public and the government, but because of the legal questions which the case presents for decision.

Counsel further called attention to the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury in his opposition to Mr. Hearst's action had admitted all of the allegations of fact which it contained and that therefore the suit would present purely legal questions for the court's decision.

Coldest Weather of Winter Coming

The weather bureau in Washington issued a special bulletin today predicting that the coldest weather of the Winter will be experienced east of the Rocky Mountains during the next week.

"The cold weather will extend southward over the Gulf and South Atlantic States, carrying freezing temperatures to the coasts the first part of the coming week," the bulletin says.

Boston will experience a period of real Winter weather for the next few days according to Weather Forecaster Smith, who predicts freezing temperature throughout tomorrow and Sunday. Cloudy skies without snow or rain prevails in all sections of the country.

OFFICIALS REFUSE TO GIVE DETAILS OF 'VIOLATIONS'

A statement naming the alleged "plotters" who Simon Swig claimed conspired to ruin the Tremont Trust Company, was today promised by Judge Louis A. Swig.

This announcement followed the declaration by Asa P. French, president of the bank, that its closing was "an act aimed at one man and one race," and an unjustified exercise of arbitrary authority.

The Swig statement, it was declared, would give full details of the alleged plot, and would be but the start of important revelations which the family intend to make.

At the same time an official of the Federal Reserve System, whose name was withheld at his request, declared that body had felt no apprehension over the condition of the Tremont Trust Company of late.

A similar sentiment was expressed by A. W. Hayes, vice-president of the Fourth Atlantic National Bank, representative of the Tremont Trust Company in the Clearing House Association.

'CONSPIRACY WILL NOT GO UNCHALLENGED,' SAYS SWIG

In his announcement made at the Swig home, Judge Louis Swig said: "The people of Boston have every right to be fully informed regarding all the details of this matter. We feel they are entitled to complete information, and are at work on a statement which we are making as authentic as possible.

"In that statement we purpose to give the names of those who started this conspiracy under the present banking commissioner. The statement will give the place where the plot was hatched, what was said and what was done. This will be but the start of the revelations we intend to make regarding this conspiracy, which resulted in wrecking the Tremont Trust Company.

"The names of those first caught in the meshes of the conspiracy will be revealed in this first statement. Other names will be made public later.

"I want to repeat that depositors in the Tremont Trust Company will be paid in full, dollar for dollar, and that without the need of any assessment upon the bank's stockholders."

There was a report in Boston today that impeachment proceedings would be brought against Bank Commissioner Allen as a result of the closing of the Tremont Trust Company. Louis Swig was asked if such proceedings were to be started. He replied: "We are securing facts."

TODAY'S DEVELOPMENTS.

Other developments in the Tremont Trust Company situation were as follows:

1—Attorney-General J. Weston Allen said that no violations of the banking laws by the trust company had been called to his attention. He added he would soon confer with the bank commissioner.

2—John P. Feeney said he had been connected with the bank only as a stockholder since the first of the year, but he believed it to be sound.

3—Statement by Simon Swig that he would fight to the finish, although he was through with banking.

4—City Treasurer Henry F. Lehne of Cambridge said to be conferring with local authorities regarding Cambridge's deposit of $262,790 in the closed bank.

5—Remarkable absence of depositors in front of closed bank, in view of the fact that the trust company sustained a run a short time ago.

6—A committee of five from the trust company protested to the bank commissioner for his action in paying off the bank employes up to last night, instead of for the entire week.

Attorney-General Allen, in his statement, said he had planned to leave town over the week-end, but in view of the developments which had arisen from the Tremont Trust situation, had cancelled his plans.

Bank Commissioner Allen, following a conference with former Attorney-General Hosmer, Feeney and Swig, adhered to his earlier attitude and refused to make any statement.

WILL FIGHT TO FINISH.

Simon Swig announced today that he would fight to a finish. Through his son, Judge Louis A. Swig, he declared that he would back the trust company, although previously stating that he was through with banking.

The statement was made at the Swig home at No. 194 Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, where the vice-president of the bank also charged plot to ruin him and declared the "conspiracy will not go unchallenged."

Apparently suffering keenly from the blow inflicted when the bank was closed, Swig hotly denied the bank commissioner's statement that the banking laws had been violated and that bad and doubtful loans had been made.

He further assured the 40,000 depositors, 6,000 of them commercial, and 34,000 savings department, that their funds would be protected and he would watch carefully any liquidation.

The closing of the bank tied up $18,-500,000 in deposits, and brought the total depositors for the five trust companies closed up to 187,387.

Although the State and city funds were all withdrawn prior to the crash, the city of Cambridge still had $295,-000 in the Tremont Trust Company, deposited during the recent run on the bank.

EMPLOYES PROTEST.

A committee of five, representing the employes of the Tremont Trust Company, and headed by Herbert W. Barton of Jamaica Plain, called at the office of the bank commissioner today. They protested against his action in paying the bank employes up to last night, claiming that they were hired by the week.

They also charged that in the cases of other closed banks the employes were paid up to the end of the period for which they were hired.

They were referred by the commissioner to E. A. Hovey, director of the department of trust companies, his office, who is in charge at the Tremont Trust Company.

Attorney Feeney in discussing his connection with the closed bank said he considered the bank sound at the first of the year because of the purpose of his legal interest. Since that time he said he had been a stockholder.

He declared he knew nothing of any trouble at the bank until he read the newspaper reports, and believed the institution to be in a perfectly sound condition.

At the office of City Treasurer Lehan of Cambridge it was said that the deposit of that city with the Tremont Trust was $262,790. This amount was the remainder of $500,000 borrowed from the banks in September in anticipation of taxes, and left on deposit to be checked out from time to time.

CROWD ABSENT.

At the quarters of the bank on Court street today the depositors were conspicuous by their absence. There were no surging crowds of anxious citizens, and apparently the only persons who displayed curiosity were passing pedestrians. At no time were the police forced to exert themselves in keeping people moving, and so far as could be learned none of the depositors had called at the bank.

This condition was considered as being particularly unusual, especially in view of the fact that the bank suffered from a bad run only a few months ago.

Another interesting feature in connection with the situation was the fact that Edwin T. McKnight, president of the Senate which tried Simon Swig's most vigorous opponent in politics and banking, has suffered an eclipse which was first emphasized when his Fidelity Trust Company was closed. Since that time he is said to have given up most of his holdings.

The bank commissioner in closing the Tremont Trust Company gave two reasons. One of the two was an allegation which had not been made against the four prominent trust companies closed recently and which charges "violations of the banking laws of the Commonwealth."

"METHODS UNSOUND,' SAYS ALLEN

In closing the bank Allen issued the following brief statement:

"The Tremont Trust Company is closed as a result of unsound and unauthorized banking methods. My action has become necessary for two reasons:

"First, on account of violations of the banking laws of the Commonwealth.

"Secondly, because the total of bad and doubtful loans is such that the capital is seriously impaired. It is for the protection of depositors, stockholders and all concerned that I have taken possession in accordance with the duty imposed upon me by law."

After Swig had issued a formal statement to press representatives he made the following announcement to an American reporter:

"I am through with the banking business. I will do all in my power to protect the depositors and stockholders of the Tremont Trust from loss by action of the Bank Commissioner. But as far as my continuing in banking these days are passed. The Bank Commissioner has too arbitrary a power which can be abused."

Swig said that last November and December Allen had a staff of twenty examiner in the bank and they went over the transactions of the bank from the time of organization a little over six years ago.

"When they completed their examination," said Swig, "the Bank Commissioner reported to Governor Coolidge, and the Governor told me, that their report was that the bank was solvent."

DISLIKED ADVERTISEMENTS.

"After the examination the Bank Commissioner had only two suggestions to make. One was that he did not like the way the Tremont Trust advertised, and the second was that an account of some $200,000 should be transferred to another. He gave us five days in which to make this change and we complied in three days.

"A few weeks ago Allen had two or three more examiners in the bank for a couple of days and we asked what the reason was, and he said he wanted some information regarding one or two matters.

"Some time ago the Bank Commissioner requested me through my attorney to resign. My reply was that the Tremont Trust Company was my child, that I had suffered for the last seven years and that every dollar I owned was invested in the bank, but sooner than wrong the depositors, I would resign and give the bank the shares owned by myself and my family. But the Bank Commissioner was not content with my resignation. He wanted the resignations of others who are responsible for the building up of the Tremont Trust Company."

Bellamin Swig said that the Fourth Atlantic National Bank clears for the Tremont Trust at the Boston Clearing House. He said that the Tremont Trust met its requirements at the clearing house and had enough over to cover clearings for two or three days more.

A. W. Haynes, vice-president of the Fourth National Bank, through which the Tremont Trust Company clears, said today his bank had not been apprehensive in regard to the condition of the trust company.

He said the Tremont had always had sufficient balance in the Fourth National to cover clearings and he was surprised when the bank commissioner took over the other institution.

The Fourth National, he said, did not require the Tremont Trust to keep a surplus deposit with them.

The stock of the Tremont Trust sells at $150 a share, so that 2,000 shares owned by Swig and his family is worth $300,000.

Swig said that he and other officials of the bank have been in constant fear of the bank commissioner closing the institution "to satisfy the bank's enemies."

Last September when James Jackson took office as State Treasurer the State had $475,000 on deposit in the Tremont Trust Co. This was withdrawn gradually till November 20, with a $5,000 balance was withdrawn.

my interest for Mr. Warner in his suit against him."

Reference here is to a suit brought against Fuller by former Speaker Warner.

"PITIFUL SHOWING."

"He (Fuller) )laid before me his whole defence," continues Washburn's statement. "It was a pitiful showing —more so than I had even dared to hope. It satisfied me absolutely that my campaign statements were absolutely sound in the matter of Warner's contentions, and that Fuller's defence was absolutely weak. His statements yesterday and today with reference to me are also false from A to Z."

The statement was given out by Lieutenant-Governor Fuller in reply to Washburn's statement denying he had interviewed the Lieutenant-Governor and expressed regrets at past criticisms and charges.

"On Tuesday evening last, Mr. Washburn called me at my house and asked for an interview on a matter which he said was of great importance and one that would benef great advantage to me and very much in my interest. I told him that I had friends to meet and that I had an engagement in the evening. Whereupon he requested me to se him Wednesday after the meeting of the Governor's Council.

"REGRETTED CHARGES."

"I went to see Mr. Washburn as he requested at his office and he read to me a written statement which said in substance that he was anxious not to be considered my enemy, that he regretted that his charges in the late campaign were made, and that he wanted me to know that neither by the written or spoken word would anything be said in the future, and that he thought it would be a great relief to me to know that he would not be sending any more nasty letters to the press.

"He then took me to task for not appearing to enthuse over his change of heart. Being a bit suspicious of 'Greeks bearing gifts,' I asked him what information had been brought to his attention that had caused this change of heart and he said that he could not make it known for thirty or forty days, at which time he would expect to issue a statement.

"I thought Mr. Washburn had experienced a change of heart and that he truly regretted, as he said, his unfair and unfair attcks. Apparently he doesn't. Fortunately, I do not feel at all dependent upon his friendship and under the conditions that have obtained in the past, it is my opinion I can do to my credit that I have had his enmity than his friendship and I am perfectly willing to consider him still my enemy. What he thinks of me doesn't interest me and what I think of him isn't fit to print."

FRENCH CHARGES RACIAL ISSUE

President of Tremont Says Closing Was Without Justification; Will Stick in Fight

The closing of the Tremont Trust Company was "an act aimed at one man and at one race," Asa P. French, president of the bank, declared today.

In reply to questions Mr. French further charged that it was an excess of arbitrary authority, without justification, and that it hardship and loss ensue the bank commissioner and those behind him must assume responsibility and should suffer the consequences.

"Let me first say a personal word," said Mr. French. "I went into the Tremont Trust Company when it was first opened, because I was interested in the project of establishing a banking institution through which a deserving business man of honest reputation and small means could obtain financial assistance which he could not find elsewhere.

"I went into it because its purpose was to give savings depositors their fair share of the earnings of their money by limiting returns to its stockholders, and paying modest salaries. I went into it because there were men of high standing in the community who went in with me prompted by the same motives.

NOT WANTED IN BOSTON.

"That, however, is not the kind of a bank that is wanted in Boston by the powers that be and so it has been closed.

"My salary was at first merely nominal. Until less than a year ago it was only $2,500 a year; since then it has been $5,000. I have been repeatedly and earnestly urged by my friends to resign because, as they thought, my connection with the institution was injuring me in the estimation of many men whom I respect, as perhaps it has; but that I could not honorably do even if I were so disposed, because the bank has been the object of bitter attack from the beginning.

"Even in the light of what has happened, and whatever the consequences, I am glad that I remained to the end—if it is the end.

"The news of the closing by the Bank Commissioner came to me by wire on the train on my way to New York yesterday, and was a most unlikely say, a compete surprise. It was an act aimed at one man and at one race, and an exercise of arbitrary authority which thos in close touch with the condition of the bank know to be without justification.

MUST ASSUME BLAME.

"If hardship and loss ensue, the blame for which the bank commissioner and those behind him must assume the responsibility and should suffer the consequences.

"I do not believe there is a trust company in Boston which has more strictly complied with even the most technical of banking laws than has the Tremont Trust Company, or whose deposits are more safely invested.

"If the bank had been left in charge of its officials, I am confident that its depositors would not lose a dollar, and even with the extraordinary and unnecessary expense which is incident to the closing, and the administration of bankruptcy clerks from the commissioner's office, I believe that the same thing will be true."

"Everything looks favorable for his recovery."

Dr. Murray made this statement, after being with Caruso since midnight. Caruso was left for the first time today without a doctor at his bedside constantly when Dr. Murray went into the Vanderbilt Hotel dining room for a late breakfast leaving two nurses in attendance.

Friends of the singer hoped today that an official announcement would be made before night that Caruso had passed the crisis in his malady. However, he is still regarded to be desperately ill and his improvement necessarily will be slow.

One person who has been admitted to Caruso's chamber said that the singer had lost between thirty-five and fifty pounds weight since he was stricken. The patient's fever and inflamation has abated considerably.

Advertising Cuts Prices You Pay

Saving on Shoes
Double Duty Dollars
Lazy Clerks Hate It
Every Woman Can Help Readjust Prices

AN EDITORIAL ON BUYING

TODAY, when the buying public is rightfully expecting its every dollar to do double duty, this publication feels that it can render no more constructive service to its readers than to intelligently and sincerely point out the possibilities of advertising as related to the needs and opportunities of every home.

Advertising costs money, of course, and there must be some easily understood explanation why it is an investment and not an expense—why it decreases rather than adds to the cost of merchandise.

Intelligent advertising describes desirable merchandise in an attractive manner, quotes a reasonable price and points the way to the door of the man who has it for sale.

It speaks persuasively to thousands of interested readers every day.

It creates six big selling days for the advertising merchant where there used to be only one or two. This throws an increased demand back upon the manufacturer, and general prosperity follows.

It transforms empty stores into busy markets of trade and makes room for new stores. It makes shopping districts great retail centers. It banishes the enormous waste resulting from unused facilities, such as floor space, and idle clerks.

It makes merchandise sell faster, thereby enabling the advertised merchant to transact a large business on a smaller percentage of profit.

It enables him to "turn over his stock" several times oftener during the year than does the non-advertising dealer, with comparatively little additional selling expense.

A press dispatch from Cambridge, Mass., says:

"The Bureau of Business Research established several years ago at Harvard University has issued a bulletin which deals with the cost of retailing shoes. Field agents have sent in reports of the investigation of more than 130 shoe stores in various parts of the country. Among other things, the bureau asserts, that it has found gross profit ranges from 20 fh 40 per cent, of the net selling price, and that operating expenses ranges from 18 to 35 per cent. of the net selling price, which means that some stores are nearly twice as efficient as others.

"Stores that turn over their stock only once a year and others turning their stocks four times were encountered by the investigators, who declared that millions of capital could be released from investments in merchandise if the retailer increased his stock turns.

"'More stock turns,' it is declared, 'means an increase in net profit without any raising of price a pair.'"

And advertising "turns over stocks," thereby increasing the net profits of a business and at the same time making lower selling prices possible to you—the public.

That is, manufacturers who have goods to sell to the retailer, and—

Retailers who have goods to sell to the public—

Cannot wisely do without advertising.

For the first it creates distribution;

For the second it provides customers, and—

By cumulative effect works itself into a force which makes it the most wonderful agent of economy for both reader and advertiser that has ever been developed.

And because this is true every man and every woman anxious to assist in the readjustment of prices and business conditions should read advertising closely and constantly.

SIMON SWIG ROSE FROM ILLITERATE PACK PEDLER TO BANKER

HAD CAREER LIKE HERO IN FICTION

Peddled Tinware, Often Went Hungry, Finally Rose to Power and Wealth

The most spectacular figure in Boston banking circles today, Simon Swig, vice-president of the Tremont Trust Company, has had a career which outshines that of any hero of Horatio Alger or Oliver Optic.

As an immigrant boy he trudged the dusty roads of Massachusetts with a pack on his back, hungry, penniless and with his shoes stuffed with cardboard in lieu of soles.

He slept at night in the woods, lacking funds for shelter. His breakfasted not infrequently on dry crackers—and fasted the rest of the day. He peddled tinware, necktties—anything—from farmhouse to farmhouse. He rose to a position of power in the banking world, to a place of prominence in the political world, and to a position of standing in the social community.

His ascension to banking and political affluence made him one of the most dramatic characters in this State.

Swig was born in Russia, May 15, 1858. He came to this country when fifteen years old, a boy in short trousers, and did the menial work that is the usual store of the young immigrant. His first venture into business was a pack peddler. He collected rags and sold tinware from a pack on his back.

Swig's exalted position in later years at no time caused him to hide the story of his early poverty. He at one time told the story of his dramatic rise to the House of Representatives when, in 1917, he was accused of violating the corrupt practice laws by expending in his campaign more than the legal amount provided in the statues. He was exonerated.

In the course of this story, Swig said that he had often taken shelter in the woods at night between Worcester and Springfield. He had gone "to bed" hungry, with his pack as a pillow and dry leaves as a blanket. He arisen hungry, toiled the long day and retired at night in the next convenient woods, undernourished and sick at heart. His shoes were soleless. He stuffed them with rags and cardboard to protect his blistered feet.

Swig fainted in the telling of the story. His body fell prostrate across the desk. Fellow members rushed to his assistance. He soon revived and told the story to the end. Swig still ingers in his excitement into broken English, but is regarded as a powerful and effective orator.

Author of "Dark Man With Bundle" Phrase

In the Curley-Peters-Gallivan campaign, Swig's dramatic recital of the former Mayor's alleged threat to withdraw city funds from his bank unless he supported Curley was one of the most powerful bits of oratory during the long, bitter contest.

During his hard struggle, Swig found time to attend school. His ambition was to acquire the prestige which finally came to him, to educate his family and to bring his father and mother to this country to pass their days in peace and comfort.

Swig finally took residence in Taunton where, with the small fund he had marshalled from his own privations, he launched himself into the junk business. Nineteen years ago, in the Bristol County city, he made his first bid for political office.

He was elected to the Taunton Board of Aldermen. He served three years and again in 1907 and in 1911, years when he was president of the board. His Taunton hitches sent him to the Legislature in 1903 and 1906. In the latter year he was involved in the investigation of the scandal surrounding the passage of the anti-bucket shop law.

Swig discovered the men and coined the phrase, "the dark man with the bundle." The mysterious person was said to be in and around the lobby to buy votes against the bill. Swig disclosed his alleged appearance to newspapermen and it was printed. Representative Frank J. Gethro was expelled. Swig later modified some of his statements and was censured by the House.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED.

Swig then came to Boston. In 1916 and 1917 he was elected to the House from Roxbury. His political enemies attempted in vain to defeat him for re-election. They then accused him of spending more than the law allows and asked the House to expel him. The House heard the evidence and dismissed the complaint. It was at this time that Swig delivered his speech of defense, which was interrupted by the fainting spell.

About seven years ago, Swig became actively interested in banking and the Tremont Trust Company was formed. The former immigrant surrounded himself with influential men of standing who had faith in his ability. Former Governors John L. Bates and Eugene Foss were two of his staunchest supporters, and have always remained so. Former United States Attorney Asa P. French became president of the bank. Former Attorney-General Thomas J. Boynton and John F. Feeney are among the prominent members of the executive board. More recently, Charles Levi, for twenty years deputy bank commissioner of the State, took a conspicuous post with the Tremont.

Swig has always maintained that his own experience in banking has taught him that the depositors seldom have received the interest which their money earned and to which they were entitled. He was fond of a cartoon which showed the bankers living in mansions and the depositors in hovels.

First One to Take Advantage of the I. and R.

He became House chairman of the Committee on Banks and Banking and then began his legislative drive to compel the banks to pay their depositors what he always maintained was their rightful share of the profits. He advocated a law to allow the banks to pay interest from the date of deposit to the day of withdrawal.

The Legislature defeated this plan and Swig took his case to the people, employing the Initiative and Referendum in this State for the first time. A law was passed which allowed the payment of interest monthly. Swig said that this law is, many, many instances saves the depositors the interest accumulated on their deposits for five months at a time.

Swig had presented to the present session of the Legislature the bill to allow interest to be paid from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal. He appeared before the banks and Banking Committee within a week and argued the justice of it. The committee, a day or two ago, reported against the bill, five of its members dissenting.

WITHSTOOD BIG RUN.

He had, at the present session also, introduced a bill to require savings banks and trust companies to pay to the State yearly a sufficient fund to protect the investments of depositors in any bank which might be closed in the future. There is also pending a bill to establish the character of bank examiners employed by the State.

When the four other Boston trust companies were closed, Swig's bank withstood an enormous run. Its funds were then said by the Bank Commissioner to be unusually liquid. Swig mounted a table in the bank and on two occasions made forcible appeals to the depositors to stand by him. His eloquence to part stopped the run. But a moratorium was finally declared for ninety days.

Throughout this strenuous period, Swig has declared that the old-line banking interests, angered by his frequent legislative assaults, have attempted to ruin him. He said that a State bank examiner for weeks attempted to close the Tremont, and that he was later rewarded with a lucrative position in one of the Boston banks.

Offered to Help Other Closed Institutions

He threatened to hire Mechanics Hall for a public express. In the course of a long conference with Bank Commissioner Allen, he suffered another stroke and was in the care of physicians.

It was said that former State Treasurer Burrill placed State deposits in the Tremont in excess of the legal limit; that Burrill was handling the Tremont advertising. Swig replied that he loaned the State $5,000,000 when every other banking institution in Boston had closed its doors to the State. The money was loaned, he said, at far less than the interest rate demanded by the New York bankers whom Burrill sought out, after all but the Tremont had denied the State's request in Boston.

Swig also said he offered to loan the Cosmopolitan $1,000,000 which would have checked the closing of that bank by Allen, but that the old-line interests blocked the loan.

Swig has reared eleven children. One is a Judge, another a doctor. One is treasurer of the bank. All have been given the education which was denied him in youth. Swig bought a mansion on Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, and brought from Russia his aged father and mother, there to keep the respect he made as a youth in their behalf.

He has been a trustee of the State Hospital for Consumptives for many years. The position is without salary. Swig has always declined to accept his expenses from the State.

He was president of the Elm Hill Co-operative Bank, a director of Quimby & Chesey Confectionery Company, a director of the Atlantic Hide & Leather Company, and president of the Beth Israel Hospital Association.

He is a past chancellor of Concord Lodge, K. of P.; a member of Warren Lodge, I. O. O. F.; a life member of the Free Loan Society of Boston, and a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Roxbury Improvement Association, Boston Press Club and the Roxbury Board of Trade.

Closed Bank's Career Marked by Battles

The Tremont Trust had been at bitter odds with the big bankers of Boston ever since its organization. It was the slogan of the Tremont that it was "a people's bank."

The larger banking interests and older savings banks fought the Tremont Trust because it steadily increased its dividends on savings from the old rate of 4% per cent. until it reached 5½ per cent. It was paying 5 per cent. when the commissioner closed its doors.

Naturally the other banks having savings departments had to follow in increasing their interest rates to hold deposits. Special legislation was obtained by the Tremont Trust so that it could give a greater share of its earnings to depositors.

ACTIVE AT STATE HOUSE.

Swig's bank was very active in securing legislation to give depositors an opportunity to secure more of the earnings. At every hearing on bills introduced by Simon Swig, the bankers' fraternities were represented in opposition and individual banks appeared against him.

Only recently the Legislative Committee on Banks and Banking held a hearing on several measures introduced by Swig. One of his bills called for criminal prosecution of persons circulating malicious rumors against banks. This measure was not opposed.

But when his bill came up to allow savings banks to pay interest on deposits from the date of deposit to withdrawal, the other larger banking interests were united in opposing it.

Simon Swig and his son, Judge Louis A. Swig, arguing for their bill, declared that it was not fair for a bank to accept money and not pay interest on it for some time.

EXPANSION SURPRISED RIVALS.

Judge Swig said that some banks were earning enough to pay 20 per cent. dividends to stockholders, but paid their depositors down to 5 per cent. He said that they ought to at least give the depositors "some of the crumbs."

In April, 1919, the banking community received its biggest surprise from the Tremont Trust, when it took over the Puritan Trust Company. The Tremont was then located at No. 14 State street, and the Puritan was at No. 25 Court street.

Mr. Swig bought the stock as trustee for Asa P. French, president of the Tremont, and other members of the executive board of the Tremont Trust Company.

The Puritan was eighteen years old when the merger was effected and its deposits aggregated more than $4,000,000. Frederick W. Stockman was president and treasurer, and among the directors were William A. Bancroft and A. C. Ratshesky of the United States Trust Company.

OPPOSITION INCREASES.

The Tremont then remodeled the building occupied by the Puritan into a four-story building solely for the enlarged institution. Since then the growth of the Tremont has been rapid and with each step forward came greater opposition from the more thoroughly intrenched institutions.

Last August the Tremont Trust gave evidence of its growth, when it took title to the property at Nos. 27-31 Court street, including the old Tontebrdge and Minot buildings. It was planned to raze the present structures and build a modern 12-story bank and office building.

CHARGED "FAVORITISM."

It was reported that on July 31 1920, the State treasurer had on deposit with the Tremont Trust Company State funds amounting to $850,000, although the paid-up capital of that institution was $545,899, according to the bank commissioner. The maximum allowed by law is 40 per cent. of the paid-up capital of a depository.

Other banks immediately protested that "favoritism" was being shown the Tremont Trust, contrary to law. It served as another knife for Swig's enemies.

Ex-Commissioner Says He Found Violations

Former Bank Commissioner Augustus Thorndike said that more than a year ago, while bank commissioner, he held a conference with Tremont Trust Company officials and pointed out violations of the banking regulations.

"They were new at the banking business," said Mr. Thorndike, "and there were many technical things that could have been corrected. They started to make the corrections."

The first crisis in the affairs of the closed bank came last Winter, when Mr. Thorndike compelled the officials to raise a large sum of money to satisfy him that the bank's condition was all right. This sum was raised through the efforts of prominent men.

It is understood that when Joseph C. Allen became bank commissioner last Spring he found the same objectionable business methods in vogue at the bank.

He called the Tremont Trust officials into conference and told them he would insist that they observe the banking laws.

North Dakota Bank Closed

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 18.—The Peoples State Bank of Grand Forks has closed its doors by order of the board of directors following a run on the bank which began Monday.

Nearly 46 Million Now Tied Up in 5 Closed Banks

The following table shows the number and amount of deposits, making a grand total of over $45,793,638, tied up in the five trust companies closed by order of Bank Commissioner Allen since last August:

Tremont Trust Company, closed February 17, 1921, 40,000 depositors, $13,300,000.

Fidelity Trust Company, closed September 28, 1920, 26,335 depositors, $14,300,000.

Hanover Trust Company, closed August 11, 1920, 8,780 depositors, $2,252,638.

Cosmopolitan Trust Company, closed September 25, 1920, 26,172 depositors, $12,941,000.

Prudential Trust Company, closed September 10, 1920, 5,900 depositors, $3,000,000.

Jackson Believed Bank Unsafe

State Treasurer James Jackson, when asked why he had withdrawn $475,000 of the State's deposits from the Tremont Trust Company within two months after assuming office, said today:

"Because I considered that the bank was not being run for the best interests of the depositors. I believe that Bank Commissioner Allen has done the best he could to protect the savings of the thirty or forty thousand poor people who had deposited their money in that bank."

Governor Cox said:

"The affair is in the hands of the bank commissioner. He must be given time. I know of no other bank under close surveillance."

ASK 8 STATES TO JOIN TYPHUS CONFERENCE

Health Commissioners Here Want Alien Examination Policy Definitely Decided

City Health Commissioner William C. Woodward and State Commissioner Eugene R. Kelly today wired to Surgeon-General Hugh R. Cumming in Washington asking him to arrange for a conference of the health officials of eight States and eight cities on the typhus fever crisis.

The telegram suggests that the conference be called for Monday next at Washington, and that it take up and definitely settle the question of policy of examination of immigrants from typhus infected districts of Europe.

It is suggested that the conference, if called, decide whether the government regulations are sufficiently rigorous to exclude all typhus bearing immigrants, and effectually block the entry porte against the disease.

AS FAR AS VIRGINIA.

In their telegram the health officers urge that the Surgeon General summon the officials of the following States, all of them centres into which many of the suspected immigrants are going:

Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia.

It is suggested that officials representing the health department of the following cities be asked to attend:

Boston, New York, Jersey City, Providence, Baltimore, Norfolk and Newport News.

Local officials admit this step has been taken in view of the action of the New York city authorities under the direction of Dr. Royal Copeland, who has protested against what he called the inadequacy of the governments inspection at entry ports.

Denying that he has been lax in his duties in allowing eighty-five men, women and children, "infested with typus-carrying vermin," to land in Boston and proceed to New York on a train, Dr. William M. Bryant, head of the Quarantine service at Gallop's Island, declares he takes orders from Washington and not from the health officials of New York.

"I know absolutely nothing about these eighty - five immigrants to whom the New York health officials refer," said Dr. Bryant. "No persons with typus-carrying germs were allowed to land by us. Sometimes makes a mistake once in awhile. It's fair to state that New York health officials are mistaken when they make such a charge. I take my orders from Washington."

DELAY NEW YORK ALARM.

"My work is performed under the direction of the United States Public Health Service, and all persons leaving Europe for America are supposed to be cleared by the time they reach us. The American consul in Europeans ports has work set out for him in that regard. Conditions are expected and ordered by the United States government to give certificates showing that emigrants are clean.

Some of the authorities in Washington want to change the health regulations affecting the arrival of immigrants to this country. I stand ready to co-operate. It is not for me to change these laws. That is up to the government. If I am ordered to be most strict than I am in the performance of my work, I'll obey."

Boston physicians "pooh pooh" the idea that there is danger of typus spreading in this city, and hold reports from New York lightly.

Commissioner Woodward declared that the typhus scare should not be taken seriously.

VERMONT FIGHTS OVER NORMAL SCHOOLS

Leading Educators Line Up for and Against New York Merger System

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 18.—Shall the Carnegie Foundation of New York control the schools of Vermont or shall the people of Vermont continue to run them?

Shall the normal school system of the State, which has been in existence fifty years, be wiped out and a central teaching college for teachers, under the domination of Columbia University of New York, take its place?

These two vital questions have stirred Vermont fro one end to the other and are about to be settled by the Legislature after one of the bitterest legislative fights ever staged in the State.

Leading Vermonters have lined up on one side or the other, many of them returning from long distances to participate in the fight, as they feel that the educational system of the State is at stake.

TWENTY YEARS' FIGHT.

The present fight to wipe out the normal schools of the State is the culmination of a twenty-years' effort on the part of Lieutenant Governor Huston Stone to put them out of business.

While serving as State Commissioner of Education he tried to wipe out the normal school method of training teachers. Those opposed to him say that his motive is a personal one—that hedesires to become the active head of the proposed central college.

There are many argues to the present fight, which is considered the principal question for settlement before the present Legislature.

POLITICAL PROMISES.

There on the inside say that Lieutenant-Governor Stone withdrew from the field of candidates for Governor last year after an alleged understanding with Governor James Hartness, whereby Hartness is said to have promised to help wipe out the normal school system if elected.

Stone gave Hartness his support upon this condition, it is said. The personal ambition of Stone to become head of the proposed central college is said to have been greater than his desire to be Governor.

The Carnegie foundation has offered to give Vermont $100,000 for a central teachers' training college provided the State raises $200,000 for the erection of buildings. The offer has a "string" tied to it, namely, that the Columbia University method of training shall be installed.

Some leading Vermont educators object to the "string," as they are strenuously opposed to the Columbia system, which has already been rejected by Rhode Island and Connecticut after trial.

PROMINENT ANTAGONISTS.

Among those who oppose the wiping out of the normal school system are Dr. John Thomas, president of Middlebury College; former Lieutenant-Governor Charles H. Stearns of Johnson, who entered the Legislature again this year for the express purpose of fighting to retain the normal schools, and Miss Helen M. Winslow of Boston, graduate of Johnson Normal School and one of the most beloved of Vermont's daughters.

Those favoring the central college teaching plan are chiefly persons connected with University of Vermont, Burlington. Their institution would benefit from the proposed change, as the plan is to locate the college there.

The bill introduced by Representative Stearns provides for a comprehensive system of teacher training in Vermont.

GREEKS TO FIGHT ANY SEVRES TREATY CHANGE

London, Feb. 18.—Any modification of the treaty of Sevres (the Turkish treaty) will be rejected by Greece, it was declared here today by the Greek Premier, who arrived to attend the Near East conference. "Greece has spent hundreds of millions in carrying out her mandate for former Turkish territory and the country will certainly reject any modification of this mandate because it would affect the whole structure of our program in the Near East," said the Premier.

NOTED TERRIER COMING FROM CANADA

Haymarket Faultless Will Be One of Many Features at Boston Dog Show

Haymarket Faultless, the champion bull terrier, whom many believe is the greatest dog of his breed in the world, is coming down from Ottawa, Can., to defend his title against forty of the finest thoroughbreds on this continent at the Boston Dog Show, which opens in the Mechanics Building next Tuesday. The famous Norrezz and Coolidge kennels of New York will be the greatest contenders, but many local dogs of class are entered.

Berllan Tim, who is jointly owned by T. D. Smith and Nathaniel F. Emmons of the bench show committee, is a local dog that has a lot of class. He was recently imported from England and is out of Cherry of Blighty and Pessbe of Gwent.

Fun Ching of Chinatown, a mite of a Pekingese, is another notable entry. At the Pekingese specialty show in New York this dog swept all before him. Mrs. Clinton Irwin Martin, owner of this Pekingese, is said to have paid $4,000 for him in England.

It will be Boston's biggest dog show. Approximately 1,400 of the finest dogs in the world will be benched. Scores of champions will compete for the $10,000 in prizes.

'Moonshine' and 'Jaky' on Hotel Register

Worcester, Feb. 18.—M. Moonshine and C. Jaky are among the names on the register at the Hotel Bancroft today. New York is set down as the residence of both. It is said at the hotel desk that they are prohibitionists.

The head clerk says they must have registered under their real names, as there is a false name law in Massachusetts. The head clerk also said that one man looking over the register said it looked like a wine list.

"DANDERINE"

Girls! Save Your Hair! Make It Abundant!

Immediately after a "Danderine" massage, your hair takes on new life, lustre and wondrous beauty, appearing twice as heavy and plentiful, because each hair seems to fluff and thicken. Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, plain or scraggly. You, too, want lots of long, strong, beautiful hair.

A 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" freshens your scalp, checks dandruff and falling hair. This stimulating "beauty-tonic" gives to thin, dull, fading hair that youthful brightness and abundant thickness.—All druggists!

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Advertisement.

Skin irritation from artificial heat

Dryness, itching and smarting of the skin so often resulting from any kind of artificial heat can be speedily relieved by Resinol. The moment this gentle, cooling ointment touches the skin itching usually stops and healing begins.

WHITE MUST GO, DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS SAY

Powerful Elements Convinced That Chairman Should Give Up Party Reins

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

Editorial Correspondent for Boston American.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Canning is a great industry and an important branch of it is the issuing of canned news.

Norman Hapgood

The Executive Committee of the Democratic National Committee met at the Shoreham Hotel at noon Thursday and worked until half-past one. Then they walked about fifty feet to a pleasantly arranged lunch table where they spent two hours. They returned to their executive session and after three hours' labor issued a resolution annotated with an informal statement the purpose of which was to show that there had been no difference of opinion, let alone a row, and that the whole meeting had been one grand sweet song.

In fact, the course that was taken was exactly what my article printed that morning said it would be. The majority of the committee believed that George White was not the ideal man for chairman. At the same time they were alarmed at the impression made by the call for a meeting to displace him.

Thomas B. Love and Robert W. Woolley made speeches in which they disclaimed any intention of making a personal fight on Mr. White. Love spoke twice. He maintained that the call signed by him had no selfish political purpose, but that it was the opinion of the great majority of Democrats of his acquaintance, notably in his own State of Texas, that there ought to be a meeting.

Meeting Resulted In Fine Compromise.

He believed that sound Democratic principles called for the presentation to the whole committee of the important matter of future policy and control.

In fact the meeting resulted in a good deal more of a compromise than is apparent in the statements given out. While it was clear that the majority was definitely opposed to trying to throw out Mr. White in a few weeks it was equally clear that powerful elements, probably representing a majority, were convinced that it was up to him to get out willingly at a suitable time.

This time was not definitely set but it was understood to be next Summer or early Fall. There are two reasons for setting such a time.

One is that by that time the apparently personal attack on Mr. White will have then been forgotten.

The other is the fear that reorganizing for the purpose of fighting the Republicans before the Republicans have had a chance to do anything might look small and the best Democratic leaders are anxious to give an impression of magnanimity in contrast to the way they think the Republicans treated Mr. Wilson.

Expects Public to Return to Party

Mr. Cummings made a broad dignified speech in which he pointed aspects of the situation and thought that no minor controversy should be allowed to interfere with the advantage which he believes will soon come to the Democratic party. He speaks for those who believe that the Democrats in the last campaign were right on the big issues, and that the public will come back to them after watching the Republicans perform, provided the Democrats merely maintain an intelligent and dignified position in favor of the President's principal policies.

The chairman is not being allowed to forget his promise to resign. His statement that his business affairs have changed since he made that promise is taken with polite silence. Everybody knows that he hung on the job in the first place because Governor Cox asked him to, and later on because of the attacks made upon him.

In two preceding articles I have expressed the opinion McAdoo would not favor a reorganization on any other grounds than efficiency. Angus W. McLean of North Carolina is known as a strong McAdoo man and he decidedly opposed the march 1 meeting. It was also Mr. McLean who introduced the resolution that was signed by the executive committee.

AUTOIST ADMITS TAKING WINE ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Admitting that he had drunk wine to celebrate his birthday, but denying that it incapacitated him for running his car, Charles H. Van Aucken of Albany street today appealed fines totaling $130 imposed by Judge Churchill in Dorchester court. Van Aucken was arrested on his birthday at Columbia road and Geneva avenue, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and without lights. He is held in $200.

DORCHESTER LIQUOR STILLS TRANSFERRED

Twenty-five stills, a stack of beer barrels, kegs, wash boilers and copper tubing worth between $1,200 and $1,500, journeyed in state on a large autotruck today from police station 11, Dorchester, to the State House. The load representing seizures made under the direction of Captain Charles T. Reardon of that station during the past month, and is the eighth load of the sort to be turned over to the State authorities.

$100,000,000 FOR STATE ROADS AID DEFEATED

Washington, Feb. 18.—A provision for $100,000,000 for Federal aid to the States for road building, proposed by Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, as an amendment to the pending agricultural appropriation bill was defeated in the Senate today.

HENRY FORD'S NEED OF FUNDS SHOWN

Frederick Roche, the writer of a series of articles on Henry Ford, which the Boston American starts today, is a member of the Boston American's staff. Last week he secured from Henry Ford the first statement of any kind Ford attacked the Jews. His interview with Ford was widely read and discussed. Mr. Roche has been in Detroit for some time securing information about Henry Ford's affairs.

By FREDERICK ROCHE.

Detroit, Feb. 18.—What is the truth about Henry Ford's financial condition? Probably next to Ford's anti-Jewish propaganda campaign running in his weekly paper, the Dearborn Independent, no subject is more universally discussed in this country today.

The divver master of Dearborn has denied on three different occasions that he is in need of funds.

He has smilingly denied that he has attempted recently to borrow from Wall Street or elsewhere.

He has laughed at the story of a $75,000,000 loan to him as part of the whispering campaign, the rumor-a-day campaign being conducted by the Jews."

Is the story of Henry Ford's need of money a myth, or is it fact? Does Ford himself know his own financial condition?

What do the Detroit bankers, the men who have financed Ford in the past think of the situation?

Here is what one of the leading bankers of Detroit, connected with a bank of which Henry Ford is a director, and intimately familiar with the Ford situation says about it:

1—Ford's last financial statement shows that he needs funds.

2—Against the advice of his financial staff Ford is trying to get by without borrowing money.

3—Eventually he will have to borrow money.

4—The longer he puts it off, the more it will cost him.

"Have you seen Ford's financial statement for December 31?" This was the question with which the banker prefaced his remarks on the Ford pecuniary problem.

"That statement indicates indisputably and clearly that Henry Ford needs money. I do not mean by that he is unable to pay his bills, but that he needs money to carry on his business. I know that this fact has been called to his attention.

"The situation left him with two possible courses. One was to borrow the necessary funds. The other was to try and squeeze through without borrowing. His financial advisers and his present staff are in favor of his borrowing.

"Mr. Ford personally prefers to try and squeeze through without borrowing.

"That difference of opinion may explain the contradictory reports which have been floating around the country.

"Ford's debts amount to $140,000,000 in round figures, I should say. He has quick assets amounting to $150,000,000. Of, course, he should have twice as many quick assets.

"For some weeks his plants were closed. Now they are barely running. The automobile market is dull. However, the sale of Ford parts alone should pay his running expenses. But this would not settle the bill for the expensive enlargements he is making in his plants. His overhead expense, too, has been going on during the time the plants were closed. That is no small item on the Ford expense account.

"Unquestionably sooner or later Mr. Ford will have to borrow money. It is simply a question of time in my opinion.

"The longer Mr. Ford waits the more it will cost him to borrow, because the larger the sum he will have to have."

Mr. Ford's taxes alone, according to those in a position to know, amount to $50,000,000.

Authorities on the subject in Detroit and environs claim that Ford's situation is due to his discharge of Frank Klingensmith, recently discharged as general manager. Klingensmith was generally considered as the financial expert of the Ford organization. It has been said that as the result of Klingensmith's departure from the Ford office, Henry himself does not know what his own financial condition is.

This, however, was denied by present Ford officials, one of whom stated that "Klingensmith was only a figurehead."

There can be no question that representatives of New York banking interests recently visited the Ford offices in regard to a loan to Ford. If they came without an invitation from someone it is the first time on record Wall Street has been known to send out representatives to solicit a chance to loan money.

That Henry Ford himself did not invite the financial visitors may be true. In fact, it was hinted quite openly that the invitation may have been extended by Detroit bankers, some of whom have in the past loaned Mr. Ford large sums and who do not care to see their assets jeopardized.

The Detroit banks have stood loyally by Mr. Ford. There is no question they intend to do so in the future. They regard him and his vast industry as vital to the future of themselves and their city. But in order to put through a loan the sharks deem necessary for Mr. Ford, they would have to call on outside aid.

That Henry Ford can borrow all the money he needs no one in Detroit, including the bankers, seems to doubt for a second.

Aside from his quick assets there are his vast realty holdings and his intangible assets amounting to many millions.

Although his factories are usually spoken of as "the Ford plant," the truth is there are three great plants engaged in turning out Fords and Fordson tractors.

One is located at Highland Park, a separate municipality which has arisen within the former city limits of Detroit. Another is the Dearborn plant in the town in which Mr. Ford lives. The third is the giant blast works at the River Rouge, to which, it is claimed, Mr. Ford plans to move ultimately all his works.

Then there is his recently purchased railroad, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton. Financial interests say this is a losing proposition. Ford has said that it is not from his point of view, since it brings the ore from his recently-bought iron and coal mines to the Ford plant. It makes him independent to a certain extent of the other railroad magnates.

Not long ago Mr. Ford bought a coal mine and an iron mine. Think was explained at the Ford plant, was simply to provide himself with raw materials, to make him independent of the coal and iron barons.

When one considers these purchases one realizes that in the past year, from buying of mines to his attempt to "squeeze through" without borrowing, Henry Ford has been making an effort to become independent of any outside aid of any kind.

Out at the Ford offices they will tell you in soft tones that Mr. Ford's recent purchases are simply to reduce the cost of production. If any other manufacturer provided himself with better facilities and raw material it would cause no comment, they say.

"I am not in need of money," says Mr. Ford with his whimsical smile. "He will have to borrow money," say Detroit bankers.

And meanwhile the Ford enterprises are running on part time, in fact on a very small fraction of normal time. Or perhaps it should be said with part of their personnel a very small part of their personnel.

At the peak of Ford production some $8,000 employes toiled in the three Ford plants. At Highland Park alone there were $2,000, according to Ford representatives.

Mr. Ford recently stated that approximately half of his men were back at work. Employes, and visitors to the plants alike deny this.

Three weeks ago, after an announced layoff since December 24, some 10,000 men were put back at work. A week ago, these men were replaced by another 10,000 men. An official claim was made that there are 20,000 men at work. There are, but 10,000 of them are taking a fortnight's vacation without pay, while the other 10,000 work two weeks.

In other words the Ford plant at Highland Park has about a fifth of its peak personnel.

When the men returned to work they were told that business was dull throughout the country, that there were thousands of Fords standing on dealers' floors. They were informed that they would make a few thousand more cars in the expectation the sale of Fords would pick up.

If it didn't, the workmen were given to understand the plants would close down again.

At the Ford offices the statements of the workmen were denied.

"More of the rumor-a-day stuff," was the way they were characterized.

Anything which happens at the Ford plants is explained as part of "the insidious whispering campaign" which Ford and his officials claim is being conducted against him by Jewish interests. True or false, it is a convenient explanation.

But Ford's problem, his vital problem, is not alone the matter of finances. He can get all the money he wants, according to those who have loaned him money before.

The keynote to Ford's situation at the present time is the matter of distribution.

His workmen are ready to go to work—but what about his salesmen?

This side of the Ford riddle will be considered tomorrow.

Suspect in Hair Snipping Caught in Subway

Mildred Waltz had two braids of hair similar to the one shown in the photograph before a snipper used a pair of scissors in the Park street subway station.

Caught in the act, it is alleged, of snipping the hair of thirteen-year-old Mildred Waltz of Waldoboro, Me., in the Park street subway station, Roy B. Gott, nineteen years old, of No. 15 Allston street, West End, was arrested at the point of a revolver by Patrolman Leo J. Phelan of the City Hall avenue station.

The girl, with her mother and sister, are guests at a Back Bay hotel. During the rush hour she was on her way to the hotel with her sister when, it is charged, Gott slipped up behind her and cut the braid with a pair of scissors. The sister witnessed the act and gave the alarm.

Patrolman Phelan, in citizen's dress, ran after Gott, who fled down the stairway and grabbed him. A struggle ensued and he surrendered when Phelan drew his revolver.

A charge of assault and battery was lodged against him.

FIND AXE USED BY KNIGHTS TO SLAY CORSON

Sheriff and Boston American Reporter Discover Weapon in Maine Murder Case

Dexter, Me., Feb. 18.—The blood-stained axe with which Eugene Knights of Canaan killed Alfred C. Corson, the aged Dexter recluse, last December, was found this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Ellis and the Boston American reporter.

The axe was discovered among household effects at the farm of Frank McKenney near this town. It had apparently been lying on the floor of an open woodshed ever since last December, when the murder is supposed to have been committed.

While Sheriff Ellis was hunting for the axe and Sheriff Moores of Somerset County was engaged in excavating the grave of the slain man in the barn at Canaan, Sheriff Penandes of Dexter was listening to a short confession of the murder made by Knights in the Bangor jail.

Sheriff Moores spent the entire night and morning tracing the events following the killing of Corson. Today the sheriff declared he was convinced the slayer of the old recluse allowed the body to remain in the trunk at the McKenney farm from the time of the murder until February 3, when apparently he became alarmed and placed the trunk on a sled and drove the twenty-five miles to Canaan.

He arrived there late in the evening, says Sheriff Moores, and left the trunk on his doorstep until the following morning, when he carried it into the unfloored barn back of the house, where it was discovered last night. There he dug a deep grave in which he hid it.

The hearing will be held before Judge Arthur W. Stone in the Municipal Court here tomorrow morning. It is expected that Knights' son, Eugene Knights, Jr., who was arrested, charged with larceny, at the time the father was apprehended, will be released. The case against him having broken down.

200 MILLION IN EXPORT ORDERS CANCELLED

Refusal to Accept U. S. Goods Brings Trouble to American Firms

Washington, Feb. 18.—Reductions in value of foreign money and price drops in foreign commodities far below domestic values has brought a flood of cancelled orders for American products estimated at more than $200,000,000 and involved a number of big exporting and banking concerns in temporary difficulty, it was said here today.

So acute is the situation that the Federal Reserve Board has directed its experts to proceed with a thorough investigation.

American ports and warehouses are literally jammed with products, mainly meats and grains, declined by foreign buyers either because of sudden inability to pay or because differences in prices since contracts for delivery were made have involved both shippers and buyers in legal tangles.

Imports have fallen away at an amazing rate recently because foreign shippers are unable to find a satisfactory market in the United States on commodities which previously led the list. Sugar and silks and hides are conspicuous among the group thus noted.

Governor Harding, of the Reserve Board, is deeply concerned over the disastrous results from cancellations by foreign buyers.

"The practice has become so common," Harding said, "as to call seriously the ability of American exporters to collect against their shipments to foreign ports.

"The most acute aspects of the situation are found in those countries which have found it practically impossible to ship goods at profitable rates to the United States or which have had an unfavorable a domestic credit position that they have felt it necessary to establish moratoria—with or without legal sanction."

Anti-Kissing Law to Be Tested

By International News Service.

Takoma Park, Md., Feb. 18.—The legality of the kiss is to be determined here.

Scandalized residents took exceptions to "spooning" in the parks and uncovered an old Maryland blue law.

Two soldiers from Walter Reed Hospital and two fair damsels are alleged to have demonstrated their affections in public. They were placed under arrest, sentenced to a fine of $10 apiece or thirty days in jail.

Now their attorney has instituted proceedings to test the constitutionality of the law.

GOLD MISSING WHEN GIBBONEY MET DEATH

Reports Indicate Bergdoll Lawyer and Companions Were Robbed in Mexico

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Further doubt as to the manner in which D. Clarence Gibboney, of Philadelphia, former counsel for draftee Cleveland Bergdoll, met his death in the Bay of Campeche, Mexico, was aroused by additional information lodged with the State Department today.

According to these advices, Gibboney had a large sum in gold when he started from Campeche to Champoton, in a small sailboat with three Americans and five Mexicans.

When the bodies of Gibboney and his three companions were found washed up on shore after a storm it was reported that the boat had been wrecked and that all aboard were drowned. Gold watches were found on all four of the bodies, but no money was found.

It is asserted that no wreckage of the sailboat could be discovered and that earlier reports of the finding of the bodies of the five Mexicans supposed to have been drowned at the same time have not been verified.

BALTIMORE SHIP PLANT CUTS WAGES 10 PER CENT

Amazing Secret Makes Weak Men and Women Strong

The Secret of Many Run-Down Conditions, Weak Nerves and Lack of Strength Now Disclosed for First Time.

Science has made many great discoveries about the human body and how to fight disease and ill health.

But never before has any discovery meant so much to weak, thin, pale, nervous and prematurely old people as this new discovery which is so important that the city of Paris, France, has appropriated a great sum of money for its further development.

Scientists have found that the reason so many thousands of people lose their health and energy is because our modern method of living breaks down the efficiency of the tiny ductless glands which are located in various parts of our bodies.

These little glands no larger than a pea furnish a substance called "hormones" which are of vital importance in building up the billions of cells in our muscles, brains and nerves.

When these glands become run-down they become unable to supply the proper amount of these hormones and as a result the building up of these life cells is halted and we become weak, run-down and prematurely old.

The New Way to Health

When a storage battery becomes run down and unable to supply power it is re-charged. And so it is with the new way to build strength in human bodies. When our ductless glands through overwork or excesses become run-down we can now recharge them, by feeding them with extracts taken from the ductless glands of animals.

Everybody has heard of the wonderful results obtained when monkey glands were transplanted surgically into human bodies. This new method works on practically the same principle,—only an operation is entirely unnecessary.

Scientists have found that animal gland extracts can be effectively administered in tablet form. They have also found that sheep and cattle gland extracts bring the same results as monkey gland extracts.

It was this remarkable discovery which led to the formulation of the wonderful new animal gland tonic, Glander Compound, which is causing great comment everywhere through the almost incredible results that it is bringing.

Startling Success of Glandex

From all sides come daily reports of the apparently miraculous results brought about through Glandex. Just read some of the letters reproduced above.

From everywhere are reported the same amazing results. People say that Glandex is working wonders for them!—that Glandex was a Godsend. The reason is easy to understand. Glandex, instead of treating only the symptoms of run-down condition, goes further and attacks the real, underlying cause, which Science has found to be run-down glands.

READ!

"After being in ill health, weak and nervous for years, today at 54 years of age I am fully as strong and vigorous as at the 25 year old period. I believe Glandex is the greatest known remedy for loss of strength and I unhesitatingly recommend it to the public." CHARLES J. BUDLONG, 42 School St., Manchester, N. H.

"For six years my wife was so run-down that I thought at any time I would lose her. She lost 25 pounds. Although she has been taking Glandex for only five weeks she has gained 23 pounds and feels, looks and acts 25 years younger." TIMOTHY A. PLEASANT, 2 Marianna St., Lynn, Mass.

"After being nervous and run-down generally for the past 15 years, and having tried dozens of tonics with little benefit, I can truthfully state that Glandex has helped me wonderfully, even though I have been taking it only a short time." MRS. SAMUEL E. DAILEY, 25 Clinton St., Cambridge, Mass.

"Eighteen months ago I suffered a physical shock, which left me on my back for five months. A few weeks ago I started taking Glandex. Today I am working and shovel two tons of coal a day with scarcely any effort whatever." EVAN S. KILGORE, 164 Front Street, Worcester, Mass.

Watch Out for Danger Signals!

If you feel all tired-out, if it exhausts you to stand up for over 15 minutes, at a time, if you never feel like going anywhere and if you feel more exhausted when you get up in the morning than when you go to bed—

If you are troubled with "nerves," if you get easily irritated and provoked, if you are seized with frequent fits of despondency or "the blues," if you can't stand the noise of children and if you imagine that things are always going wrong—

If you have grown old before your time, if your eyes and cheeks have lost the sparkle and glow of youth, if your energy and vigor have been sapped, if you have lost the youthful desire for work and pleasure—

If you have any or all of these distressing symptoms of run-down condition, in all probability it is because your ductless glands are not functioning as they should.

The thing to do is build them up. Thousands of people have found in Glandex the secret of rugged health and strength,—and the least you owe to your own self is to give this remarkable new tonic a trial.

No Risk Offer.

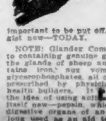
Don't risk a single penny. Simply go to your druggist, get a bottle of Glandex Compound, and take it according to directions for ten days. If the results do not come up to your full expectations, your druggist is authorized to refund your money without question.

Stop being half alive! Stop envying the men and women who are blessed with perfect health and strength! Receive now to try this latest product of science, which has brought glorious vitality and hardihood to thousands. Your health is too important to be put off. Go to your druggist now—TODAY.



BOYD: Glandex Compound, in addition to containing genuine gland extracts from the glands of sheep and cattle, also contains iron, nux vomica, and sodium glycerophosphates, all of which have been prescribed by physicians for years as health builders. It is well to note that the idea of using animal extracts to build up itself new—people, which comes from the digestive organs of an animal, has been long used as an aid to human digestion.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Well-known local druggist says everybody is using old-time Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

WOMAN KILLED BY BLOWS ON HEAD

Body of Wife Missing From New Castle, Pa., Found in Stable; Husband in Jail

New Castle, Pa., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Sadie White, who has been mysteriously missing from her home since December 23 was killed by powerful blows on the head struck by a blunt instrument, according to a statement today by Coroner Caldwell and his assistants.

A nail-night post mortem examination was conducted, following the discovery of her body under bags in a stable at her home. The woman's arms were badly bruised, showing she had put up a desperate fight for her life trying to ward off blows. Finger prints were found on her throat, indicating she also had been strangled.

Mrs. White was last seen alive, police say, when driving away from her home in a closed automobile December 23, with her husband, Albert T. White, who has been in jail since January 12, charged with bigamy, because of his alleged marriage to Mrs. Mamie Longstreet December 22.

White said he had given his wife $1,000 to go to Chicago, where she agreed to live under an assumed name, so he could wed Mrs. Longstreet.

For this purpose there is nothing better than Organic Iron, but metallic iron which people usually take, but pure Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. One dose of Nuxated Iron has estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetable or half a dozen apples. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat.

Over four million people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. A few doses will often commence to enrich your blood. Your nerves will be regaled by the marvelous tonic effect and not obtain satisfactory results. At all druggists.

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls of mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

"Lethargic Encephalitis" or sleeping sickness, the mysterious malady, is spreading in various parts of the world, according to reports received today.

The disease, striking down its victims in unexpected places, is gripping England, Ireland, Spain, Scandinavia and other northern countries, but the United States is the greatest sufferer.

These reports further show that while the northern cities have suffered the most, New York leads the list with forty-eight deaths and 187 cases since January 1.

Since January 1 also fifty cases of sleeping sickness outside of New York city have been reported to the State Department of Health in Albany.

Newark has had fifty-eight cases, with twelve deaths. Detroit twelve deaths since the first of the year, with fifty-four in 1920, and Cleveland reported eighteen cases with nine deaths.

Scranton, Pa., had two deaths and more than a dozen cases under treatment, and Springfield, Mass., had ten cases and two deaths.

While the local authorities are trying to cope with the epidemic with grave concern, it is by no means confined to Boston, according to Dr. A. Myerson, noted pathologist of No. 483 Beacon street.

AFFECTION OF BRAIN.

Dr. Myerson stated that while the records are fulfilled by the malady, it is safer to be an affection of the brain, and that efforts are now being made to isolate the micro-organism believed to cause it.

He further pointed out that this disease now epidemic in this country and Europe is not to be confounded with this sleeping sickness or Army which is an entirely different ailment.

There have been twenty-eight cases in Boston since January 1, but many of these are said to have come from outside the city for treatment. There are now five cases at the City Hospital.

"This infection," explained Dr. Myerson, "is like influenza, diphtheria, pneumonia, or any germ infection caused by an organism. We do not know that organism. It is a living infection. The medical profession has not recorded it till recently.

"A group of New Yorkers claim to have isolated a micro-organism which has caused the disease. We hope they have. They may be right. In the meantime medicine believes in giving very sceptical till the thing is proved.

FROM MAN TO MAN.

"We do know, however, that the infection passes in some unknown way from man to man. We think there is some intermediary creature spreading it, as is the case with malaria, typhus and bubonic malady. The disease consists of an infection of the brain, at the base, where the nerves that supply the eyes and face are located. The early symptoms are a change in vision, double vision, that is seeing everything twice; also facial paralysis and dizziness.

"As coming down with disease to the layman, yet perfectly explicable, is the lethargy, or drowsiness which accompanies it. Hence the name 'lethargic encephalitis,' the last word meaning the brain, and the first word overwhelm, and the first word, of course, meaning drowsiness. The disease is an inflammation of the brain.

"And in this, also, cannot be too emphatically explained, that the disease we have here in Boston is entirely different from the sleeping sickness of Africa. It is unfortunate that the same names were used for two such totally different maladies. But due to the likeness, the African disease called sleeping sickness as often associated with mental changes, as delirium and hallucinations. We have never seen a so-called 'talking' case.

AFTER EFFECTS.

"But a talking case is probably a case of hysteria. However, we should remember that rarely are the mental changes marked or permanent. The mortality, nevertheless, is high in cases who have it, running from 25 to 50 per cent. Again the so-called sleeping sickness may leave its residuals, such as paralyses, affected vision, twitchings, though the majority of cases surviving have completely recovered.

"There is no specific treatment for sleeping sickness. The treatment is entirely symptomatic, given as the various symptoms appear. The epidemic at the present time is not serious, in the number involved, but there is no telling yet whether it is receding or increasing. As to the hysterias, many cases are reported in the press of mental disturbances.

"These have bizarre symptoms, queer emotional disturbances and curious conduct and probably may all be hysterical."

Under this last classification, Dr. Myerson puts the "talking" and the "laughing" sickness. He said: "The publicity given these is rather to be deplored. It spreads a certain kind of contagion. The symptoms, the hysterias seem interesting. People who have them become interesting. Others of weak mind and character want to become interesting in the same way, therefore they incline to develop the trouble.

"These hysterias, finally are not infectious. They are not associated with change in structure of the brain. They are merely infectious like the giggilings of young girls. Sometimes the newspaper descriptions of these give us the impression that one or another case is a mental disease, certain forms of which are expressed in laughing and talking."

ESTABLISH ACTORS' ENDOWMENT FUND

At the February meeting of the Board of Trustees, Actors' Fund of America, the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, that the following information be given to the theatrical profession and to the public generally. That as the recent bequest of General Rush C. Hawkins of $200,000 to the Actors' Fund of America, the interest only of which can be used, has furnished the Actors' Fund with the opportunity long sought to found an endowment fund, we have established such a fund, and are now ready to receive gifts or bequests."

LOYD GEORGE CHALLENGES BOTTOMLEY

idicules Demand for Dissolution of Parliament and Trial of Ex-Kaiser

By International News Service.

London, Feb. 18.—It is impossible for any one nation to pay the whole cost of the war, Premier Lloyd George declared today in reply to a sensational statement issued by Horatio Bottomley, M. P. Mr. Bottomley had demanded the dissolution of Parliament and the immediate trial of the ex-Kaiser.

The Premier ridiculed Mr. Bottomley's declarations and challenged him to call the industrials from Germany.

"If Mr. Bottomley should collect the German indemnity I suppose he would bring us shiploads of worthless marks," said the premier. "If you and the rest of the opponents of the government's policy press for the impossible you will get nothing. It is impossible for any nation to pay the cost of the war, which we put at fifty billion pounds. Had England lost she could have paid the bill in full."

Premier Lloyd George declared that the trials of "German war criminals" would be pressed to the very end.

"It is strongly to be suspected that Germany will send delegates to the London conference next month 'in ragged clothes,'" continued the premier. "But no matter how the Germans come they will be informed that they must make the same efforts and the same sacrifices as other nations to meet their obligations.

"We shall enter the conference in this city next month with the determination to exact from Germany the last fathing that can be paid. At the present time, however, it is not practicable to make proposals which might raise false hopes on the part of the public."

The Premier said that England and France were agreed that it was not worth while to risk war with Holland to attempt to bring force to get the ex-Kaiser for trial.

In his statements attacking the Premier's German policy Mr. Bottomley said "Wilhelmstrasse is treating everything with callous indifference."

"KINGS OF HARMONY" TO PLAY AT OSGOOD'S

4,000 FILENE EMPLOYES AT CARNIVAL

Two Days' Event Marks Opening of New Service Building in Cambridge

More than 4,000 employes of William Filene's Sons Company, members of the Co-operative Association, attended the opening of the new service building on Charles River road, Cambridge, which is being celebrated with a two-day carnival on the sixth floor.

The occasion also marks the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the co-operative organization. The festivities will continue through tonight.

Booths representing the many activities of the firm and its various retail shops in the Boston store, as well as a vaudeville entertainment on an improvised stage, were features of the program.

There were elaborate decorations consisting of paper hangings and colored balloons, while flower girls with their wares and a program of music by the association's orchestra added to the gayety of the scene. A Japanese rolling game was in the booth representing the fifth floor, under the direction of F. A. Bullock.

Others in charge included: Edward Mowbry, seventh floor booth; J. J. Galvin, wheel of fortune; J. Reardon, Chinese laundry; Francis Dutch, flower shop; Miss M. Barry, Japanese novelties; B. Hopkinson, hope chest; Edward Long, pawn shop; Miss A. Gillen, fourth floor booth; Mrs. C. Warner, public restaurant; Mrs. R. W. Harlow, executives' wives' booth.

F. A. Black is chairman of the general carnival committee. Harold Brightman, booths committee; Miss B. Cannon, exhibits; P. S. Strout, transportation; L. J. Bitner, prizes; Owen Rossiter, decorations; R. L. Marlow, entertainment; William McLeod, publicity. A. H. Fisher was orchestra leader. The president of the Filene Co-operative Association is John F. O'Brien.

PROVIDENCE VELVET MILL CURTAILS WORK

Providence, Feb. 18.—The Crompton Company, manufacturers of corduroy and velvet, with a plant in Crompton, has temporarily curtailed the production of about 40 per cent. of its looms due to over production. The curtailment does not effect the departments engaged in finishing the cloth.

TWO-YEAR TERM FOR CHELSEA AUTO THIEF

Lawrence, Feb. 18.—Two years in jail was the penalty imposed on William McColgan of Chelsea in Superior Criminal Court here on a larceny charge from two auto dealers of Gloucester.

SALES MANAGER A Rare Opportunity

The manufacturer of a specialty desires a direct representative in this locality to take over entire territory, establish a branch office, appoint agents and organize and direct crews of salesmen for intensive work. To the right man an income of $15,000 to $20,000 a year will be assured.

The product is protected by basic patents. It is sold on a thirty day trial bond money back guarantee in writing, backed by a responsible organization.

We want the best only from a business man who is financially responsible, and has proven as a salesman and organizer. An initial deposit to cover the first shipment is required at the time contracts are signed. This man will be taken to the factory and to a territory similar to this one in which over thirty salesmen are now working successfully. Give full information and phone number. Sales manager will be in this city shortly to interview applicants. Address D 99, Boston American.

R. R. STATIONS WITHOUT AGENTS, LATEST MOVE

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18.—Railroad stations without station agents or other employes is the latest economy move of the Boston & Maine, approved by the State Public Service Commission. It affects twenty-four stations in this State, which will be kept heated and lighted, but will not dispense tickets nor handle freight. Further curtailment in service will have to follow unless conditions change radically on the road, Chairman William T. Gunnison of the commission asserts.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT IN GARMENT STRIKE

Carlie Fraunson, thirty-three years old, of Snowhill street, North End, was arrested today charged with assault and battery on Sarah Kessg of Beach street, Revere. The assault is alleged to have occurred in front of a Washington street shop, where garment workers are on strike.

WELLESLEY GETS FUNDS FOR AGORA HOUSE

To increase the restoration fund of the Agora Society House, which was burned recently, members of the society will hold an auction tomorrow on the porch of Agora of all the furniture which cannot be reconditioned. Gifts to the extent of $750 from friends and alumnae, $185 from the sale of candy on the New York special at Christmas time and In Pounders Hall, and $16,500 insurance made it possible for the rebuilding to start February 2. It is expected that the new society house will be completed by Christmas.

BISHOP MYTHEN TO BE GUEST OF F.I.F.

Virginia Episcopal Prelate Will Attend St. Patrick's Night Banquet Here

President Matthew J. Cummings, of the Greater Boston Council of the Friends of Irish Freedom, today announced the receipt of a telegram from Bishop James Mythen of the Episcopal Church, Norfolk, Va., stating his intention to attend the banquet of the organization to be held in the Westminster Hotel, on St. Patrick's night, March 17.

A telegram was also received from United States Senator Borah stating that he will attend, if it is possible for him to get away from Washington on that date. Many prominent local speakers have been invited. Deputy Sheriff William A. McDevitt of Suffolk County has charge of the musical arrangements. Special arrangements have been made with the hotel management to accommodate a large gathering.

On Tuesday evening a meeting of the Greater Boston Council will be held in the United States Hotel to complete details for the banquet. President Cummings will make some important announcements dealing with communications with leaders of the Sinn Fein forces in Ireland.

Patrick Henry Branch will be addressed by Edward F. McSweeney and Patrick J. Hagan at a mass meeting in St. Joseph's Hall, Belmont, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Austin Doherty of Cambridge and State Vice-President James J. Harold of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will be the principal speakers at a meeting of the Patrick Henry Branch in A. O. H. Hall, Waltham, Sunday night.

AUTOIST GUILTY IN FITZGERALD CASE

Plymouth, Feb. 18.—John F. Craig of Hull was found guilty of reckless driving in running down ex-Mayor Fitzgerald at Hull on July 4 last and breaking his leg. The verdict was brought in by a jury here before Judge Hall and will go to Brockton Court next Thursday for disposition. It is expected that the case will be taken to the Supreme Court.

MANCHESTER, N. H., SHOE HANDS ACCEPT PAY CUT

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 18.—Employes of the F. M. Hoyt Shoe Company will accept the report of the State Arbitration Board on a proposed 28 per cent. reduction in the wages of the employes of the company. The report provides for a 10 per cent. reduction to take effect March 1 and a similar reduction May 1.

The board, in its report, declared that the investigation had shown that the firm could not successfully conduct its business under the present wage agreements and that their elimination was reached with the idea of benefiting both the firm and employes.

Policewoman Covers 'Next to Nature' Girls

Haverhill, Feb. 18.—Policewoman Mary Hawkins strolled into a costume party held by Minnewawa Council, Daughters of Pocahontas, and stopped the dancing.

Four girls, from seventeen to twenty-five years of age, were ordered to don sweaters of opaque texture. Ribbons had been the chief part of their "next to nature" costumes.

The quartet were the main attractions of the party with a packed gallery of men folks until Mrs. Hawkins took the centre of the stage.

$10,500 JEWELS STOLEN FROM WOMAN ON TRAIN

New York, Feb. 18.—Jewelry worth $10,500 was stolen on a railroad train from Mrs. David Cummings of Ohio, it was disclosed today when she offered a reward of $1,000 for its recovery. The jewelry, it was said, vanished when Mrs. Cummings left a bag momentarily in a Pullman compartment as she was returning from a visit to her parents in St. Louis.

MEXICO ANXIOUS TO MAKE UP WITH ENGLAND

Mexico City, Feb. 18.—Mexico is anxious to re-establish relations with England and will welcome any decision that may be sent here to arrange for such purposes, it was announced today by Foreign Secretary Pani.

Filene's—SCARF COLLAR Bolivia coats, $35

Where looking incurs no obligation to buy—

A MERCHANT from out of town criticises us every time he comes here. He says we let people get out too easily without buying.

We do not believe people want to be "nagged" into buying. We believe that when they want to buy they will indicate that fact. Which is why we instruct our sales folk to be courteous and ready to serve, but not to urge people to buy.

Sometimes women, and men too, who have had courteous treatment and upon whom somebody has spent a lot of time feel they are obliged to buy something or other.

Anything bought for that reason is never satisfactory to the purchaser. It is a boomerang on the store which sells it.

Come to Filene's as often as you want, and, in any part of the store, no matter how long you stay or how many things you look at, you are under no obligation to buy.

THE scarf collar style is one of the most popular we have ever had in Bolivia coats, regardless of price, because it takes the place of expensive furs and adds a pretty "finishing touch" to the coat that the usual collar does not have.

The Bolivia is just as good as you will find in high-priced coats, but the Inexpensive Coat Shop has been able to bring the price down to $35 by lining it with Venetian instead of silk, and finishing by machine instead of by hand. The sizes: 36 to 44 inclusive.

Silver Mines Co. stockholders should communicate immediately with the company at Unionville, Nevada, or American Security Co., 51 Cornhill, Boston, Mass. Prompt action will prove of value to you.

BEAR PRESSURE STEADY FROM START

Motors, Tires and Oils Sell Lower; Rails Irregular and Steels Weak

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, many issues being at their morning lows. Bear pressure was steady from the start. Motors, tires, oils and steels yielded to selling pressure and with few exceptions rails receded. The market was a comparatively active, first-hour transactions approximating 150,000 shares.

Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange rallied from yesterday lows, demand sterling advancing more than a cent to $3.89⅝, while francs improved a little. Bar silver sold in London today at 33⅞d an ounce, its lowest price since November 7, 1916.

Atlantic Gulf was off six points before the forenoon was over, and other especially weak issues were Ajax Rubber, General Asphalt, Crucible, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Mexican Petroleum, Retail Stores, Sears Roebuck, Tobacco Products, American Tobacco, Chandler, Beet Sugar, International Corporation and Royal Dutch. They had receded from one to four.

Jewell Tea issues were unusually active and the common advanced nearly two and the preferred four points. Bosch Magneto and Reading first preferred were up a point each.

WEAK TONE AT OPENING.

While the list was irregular as to price changes at the opening, the market had a weak tone. Early fluctuations were narrow all along the line, Atlantic Gulf showing the most weakness. Norfolk & Western was strong, quickly selling at a new 1921 high. Steel, copper and shipping shares were down at the opening, while tobacco also eased off. But motors and equipments showed some strength. Rails and oils had an indefinite trend. Some specialties were up a little and others reacted slightly. Sugars were slow in appearing and there was little movement in tires. Central Leather was the only issue of its class traded in around the market opening. There was hesitation on the part of traders as to commitments. Operations were as professional in character as at any time during the year.

NEW LOWS FOR YEAR.

Among issues to sell at new lows for the year during the first hour were Atlantic Gulf, Central Leather and Ajax Rubber. Selling pressure was confined largely to a few issues during that period. But sentiment was less cheerful. Dividend reductions and omissions are telling against industrials as a class. Some speculators who have recently been on the long side are again selling stocks short. One sign of prevailing uncertainty is the extreme conservatism of what is said about the probable course of price by commentators. As a matter of fact opinion was never more divided than at present. Were the public concerned there would probably be a definite movement. But outsiders are possessed of few stocks and aside from odd lot investment buyers are not in a purchasing mood.

Wall Street Briefs

It is expected that the financial statement of American Sumatra for the last six months of 1920 will show net for common after taxes and charges approximating $10 a share.

For 1920 the Baldwin Locomotive Works reported net of $4,429,519, equal after preferred dividends to $16.14 a share on the common stock.

Net earnings of Porto Rican American Tobacco Company in 1920 were, after federal taxes and all charges, $998,047, and were equal to $20.07 a share on $4,967,767 common instead of $8.07 as previously reported. This compares with $2.77 in 1919.

Studebaker plants are being operated at about 50 per cent. of capacity, but the output is steadily increasing.

Net after charges and taxes reported by the Union Oil Company for 1920 amounted to $12,038,880, which is equivalent to $24.07 a share, against $10,638,258, or $22.95 a share in 1919.

Colonel S. P. Colt, chairman of the United States Rubber Company, says it "does not contemplate any financing and the necessity for such action does not exist."

Net profit of the Air Reduction Company for last year after all charges, but before federal taxes, was $1,250,439.

The United States Envelope Company reports for 1920 operating profits of $2,275,697. The surplus was equal to 68.2 per cent. on the common, compared with 85 per cent. in 1919 and 47.6 per cent. in 1918.

J. J. Larkin, manager of the Paris office of the Equitable Trust Company of New York, has announced the opening of a travel service bureau, a distinct departure in banking service.

Copper Market Still Dull

No improvement in the copper market is reported, foreign demand having fallen off and domestic consumers still buying only as forced to by immediate needs. Quotations are: February and March 13 cents delivered; March, April, 13 cents; March, April, May, 13⅛ to 13¼; March alone, 13 cents; April, 13⅛ to 13¼; May, 13¼.

Rail Earnings

December revenue of Chicago & Eastern Illinois increased $921,434, while operating gain in operating income was $115,473. For 1920 increases were operating revenue $6,101,685 and operating income $970,583.

The Michigan Central reports for December that operating revenue increased $24,780, while operating income decreased $884,028. Operating revenue increased $8,710,697 last year, but operating income decreased $10,321,347.

Lake Erie & Western reports December increases of $146,267 and $134,273 in operating revenue and income respectively, while revenue increased $1,927,738 in 1920 and income decreased $49,209.

NEW YORK LIFE DOES HIGH RECORD BUSINESS

The war is over but the people have learned the value of life insurance and the life companies continue to grow. They grow not only in the amount of new business done, but in the benefits to policy holders. The annual report of the New York Life published in another column records the largest annual business in its history—largest with respect to new insurance, amounts paid policy holders as per contracts, and the largest amounts paid in dividends which are returns in excess of the guarantees of the contracts. The amount paid living policy holders was more than double the amount paid as death and disability claims. The total payments to policy holders exceeded one hundred and fourteen million dollars, and the total new insurance was nearly seven hundred millions.

Three lines in the report show the risks which New York Life policies insure against—death by disease, death by accident (double the face of the policy), total and permanent disability. The additional cost of the two latter benefits is so small as hardly to be noticeable, but the benefit is in inverse proportion to their frequency. They make complete the protection offered by life insurance.

The company's balance sheet shows exactly why it needs so much money and where the accumulations are at work both for policy holders and for the benefit of society at large. There are five classes of securities in each of which the company's investments exceed one hundred million dollars. They are mortgage loans, policy loans, Liberty Bonds and Victory notes, local government obligations, and railroad bonds.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Feb. 18.—The cotton market opened at a decline of 2 to 16 points today under selling from Wall Street, local and Southern sources, the latter being unusually heavy. Liverpool cables were hardly up to expectations and Liverpool was a seller of the near position here. Commission house liquidation of March was a feature. Poorer reports from textile centres and an easier stock market and the suspension of the Tremont Trust Company of Boston were all emphasized by the bears, and the market during the early tradings showed little rallying power, notwithstanding considerable short coverings and trade demands. Opening prices were: March, 13.25; April, 13.42; May, 13.76; June, 13.85; July, 14.16; Oct., 14.53; Dec., 14.81.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Wheat opened ⅛c to ¼c lower. Corn started ⅛c to ¼c off and oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower. Provisions opened dull and a shade lower. Opening prices were: Wheat—March, 1.68 to 1.67; May, 1.58 to 1.57. Corn—May, 69⅞ to 69¼; July, 71¼ to 71⅛. Oats—May, 45 to 44⅞; July, 45⅝ to 45⅜. Lard—May, 12.10. Ribs—May, 11.22.

HEAVY TONE TO THE BOSTON MARKET

Bank Closing Has Depressing Influence Upon Local Sentiment; Curb Leaders Recede

After an irregular opening the Boston market yielded to New York influence and became weak. The closing of another bank was a depressing influence. Local trading was narrow and advances and declines ruled small. Coppers were heavy and packing issues receded. Rails were weak. Five New England roads operated last year at a deficit aggregating $21,409,234, as compared with a profit of $8,978,158 for 1919. Calumet & Hecla began a point higher, but was soon off a point. American Sugar preferred, Swift International and Edison also receded a point. New River preferred advanced three on two sales. Many issues sold unchanged from Thursday's closing prices.

Among fractionally lower stocks were Boston & Maine, Boston & Maine A, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, United Fruit, Carson Hill, National Leather, International Products, Utah Metal and Trinity. Among those to make small gains were American Telephone, Woolen preferred, United Shoe and North Butte.

CURB TURNS WEAK.

The Curb was irregular at the outset, but turned weak quickly, the leaders being off soon after the start. Early trading was of good volume. The bulk of the business was in Boston & Montana and Eureka. Both were down at the opening and their losses were increased during the first hour. They rallied a little before the morning was over.

At the end of an hour Boston & Montana was off 6 cents at 61 cents, Eureka 3 cents at 39 cents, First National 3 cents at 87 cents, Chief 1-16 at 2⅝ and United Verde Extension ½ at 33 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Perkins & Corliss Inc. of Gloucester, capitalized at $350,000, has been granted a Massachusetts charter and will deal in autos and wagons.

For 1920 the United Verde Extension reports net earnings of $3,816,019 as compared with $2,124,024 in the preceding year, and a net deficit after depreciation and depletion of $919,208 against $235,136 in 1919.

The New Haven road will expend more than $2,000,000 in Providence in building a six-track system from the Auburn freight yard to the Union Station and a seven-track system from the Union Station to the North End yard.

New River mines are now operating but two days a week and are not expected to much exceed an output of 100,000 tons of coal this month. January production was 150,000 and that for December was 170,000.

Hamilton W. Baker, a mining engineer, of Baker, Small & Co. and a party of Boston business men are en route for the Tuckahoe mine at Chloride, Ariz., in which they are interested. Mill building is planned, it is understood.

Charles Piepenbrink has been elected a member of the Boston Curb Exchange.

A Washington dispatch says that recommendations which will mark the first step toward the restoration of the postal pneumatic tube system in Boston, New York and other cities are understood to be in a report of joint commission on postal service by the engineering firm of W. B. Richards of New York.

Superior & Boston reports for the last 1920 quarter that ore shipments totaled 4,600 tons averaging 4.07 per cent. copper and 4.88 ounces of silver per ton. It received $34,580, or an average of $7.25 per ton, for its ore.

Prices Have Gone Down

The Labor Department at Washington reports that the level of wholesale prices declined an average of 6 1-3 per cent. during January, making a decline of 35 per cent. since the peak of high prices in May last.

Dividend Declarations

Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron declared quarterly 1¾ per cent. preferred dividend, payable April 1 to stock of record March 19.

International Salt Company declared quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent., payable April 1 to holders of record March 15.

Fairbanks, Morse & Co. declared quarterly 1½ per cent. dividend, payable March 1 to stock of record February 18.

United States Envelope Co. will pay on March 1 semi-annual dividend of $3.50 on preferred and semi-annual dividend of $3.50 with an extra dividend of $2.50 on common.

Northern Texas Electric Co. declared semi-annual dividend of $3 a share on preferred and $2 dividend on common, both payable March 1 on stock of record February 18.

New York Air Brake Co. declared quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent., payable March 25 to holders of record March 2.

Cities Service declared monthly dividends of ½ of 1 per cent. on preferred, preference B stock and common. In addition monthly dividend of 1¼ per cent., payable in stock on common was declared. All dividends payable April 1 to stock of record March 15. Quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent. has been declared on common stock of Canadian Pacific Railway, payable April 1 to stock of record March 1.

Cambria Steel Company declared dividend of 1 per cent., payable March 15 to holders of record February 28. Three months ago a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. and an extra of ¼ of 1 per cent. was paid.

Cuban American Sugar Co. declared quarterly dividend of $1 a share on common and quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on preferred, both payable April 1 to holders of record March 10.

Crucible Steel Co. declared quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable March 31 to to holders of record March 15.

Nebraska Power Co. declared quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable March 1 to holders of record February 16.

National Lead Co. declared quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on common, payable March 31 to holders of record March 11.

WEAK EXCHANGE AIDS MARKET DEPRESSION

Norfolk & Western Proves Only Buoyant Issue, Rising Two Points

By BROADAN WALL.

Registered, U. S. Patent Office.

New York, Feb. 18.—Reports of a disagreement in the Obregon cabinet announcement of an increase in the number of idle freight cars on railroads and a decline in the foreign exchange market had a bearish influence on the stock market yesterday, and resulted in sharp declines in prices during the afternoon.

The unfavorable developments did not appear until late in the afternoon when the market was displaying a firm undertone. A sharp contraction in the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad loadings also contributed to the general influences imparting heaviness to the list.

Strange to say the best prices of yesterday averaged with mathematical exactness the top figures recorded in the averages in the January rise which followed the severe December break. In most quarters followers of charts are ridiculed, but it is a fact that there are many thousands of speculators in the stock market who use charts as part of their factors in arriving at conclusions as to whether prices should rise or fall.

NORFOLK & WESTERN RISES.

An exception to the general heaviness during the afternoon was found in Norfolk & Western, which closed with a net gain for the day of more than two points. Dealings in this issue expanded materially because of reports that the company's segregation plan would be announced shortly and would be found to contain favorable treatment for the shareholders.

The plan is expected to confirm the report current in Wall street for many years that the Pennsylvania Railroad would lease the Norfolk & Western on a basis of an annual guarantee of 7 per cent. on the stock of the latter company. Buying of the stock is known to have been of the best kind in recent weeks, although it has been conducted quietly. Persons who are familiar with the plan state that it will prove a "melon" for stockholders.

The rise which has been going on for several weeks in New Orleans, Texas & Mexico and is due to the excellent showing of earnings put the price to a new top figure yesterday. Persons in a position to know state that about one-third of the stock is controlled by a pool in the issue, which is predicting higher quotations for it.

Smaller Sugar Crop

An Agricultural Department report states that the Hawaiian sugar crop for the year ended last September was the smallest in five years, aggregating but 555,727 short tons. It averaged 8 per cent. below the output for the preceding four years.

Inventory Filed

An inventory of the estate of Frederick C. Hartwell of Littleton, who died November 8, 1920, has been filed. The estate is valued at $65,662.14; $40,202.14 in personal property and $25,460 in real estate.

Town, County and City Loans

Worcester, Mass., has awarded $350,000 of revenue notes, dated February 18 and maturing October 18, 1921, as follows: $150,000 to Wise, Hobbs & Arnold at 5.36 per cent. and $200,000 to Salomon Bros & Hutzler at 5.68 per cent., plus $7 premium.

Middlesex County, Mass., has sold to Estabrook & Company at 5.85 per cent. discount a temporary loan of $200,000, maturing November 10, 1921.

MUNITIONS FIRM IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

American & British Co., Capitalized at $10,000,000, is Declared Bankrupt

Providence, Feb. 18.—The American & British Manufacturing Company of this city and Bridgeport has been placed in the hands of a receiver by order of a New York court, it has been learned.

George C. Tuyl, Jr., is named as receiver.

The Providence plant located on Charles street, employes about 300 persons in the manufacture of machinery. It is believed here that the receivership was due to the result of two suits against the company over a large quantity of quicksilver, brought by San Francisco concerns.

The American & British Manufacturing Company is capitalized at $10,000,000 and manufactures steam, oil and fire engines and machinery. During the war the company had large munitions contracts.

EXPRESS STOCKHOLDERS SUED BY BOSTON FIRM

The J. R. Poole Co. of Boston, produce dealers, in a bill in equity brought in the Supreme Court against Juliet F. Allen, Caroline R. Daniels and William Brewster, all of Boston, and David F. Atwater of Springfield, owners of stock in the Adams Express Co., asks the court to order the sale of a sufficient number of the 14,000 shares of the stock of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, belonging to the Adams Express Company to satisfy claims of the Poole Company for merchandise lost while in transit by the express company.

GOES ABROAD

MONSEIGNOR SUPPLE

Right Rev. Mgr. Patrick J. Supple of St. John's Church, Roxbury, joins Archbishop Dennis J. Dougherty of Philadelphia in New York today to make final preparations of their trip to Rome.

They will sail from Hoboken Saturday noon on the Holland-American liner Nieuw Amsterdam and expect to return home about the middle of March. The archbishop will return a cardinal, having been bidden to Rome by Pope Benedict to receive the red hat from the consistory which will meet in the Vatican early next month.

Mgr. Supple says he is very appreciative of the good wishes of many Boston friends for a pleasant trip. It is a special pleasure for him to go with the Archbishop of Philadelphia and be in attendance when he receives one of the greatest honors of the church, he says, because they were classmates for five years at Rome in their student days.

"Indeed, we were more than classmates and friends," says the monsignor, "we were chums, and I am very happy over his elevation.

RED-HEAD WIFE HAS A TEMPER, JUDGE FINDS

But He Refuses to Grant Ticket Agent's Petition for Divorce

Judge King declared in the Superior Court after all the evidence had been submitted by both sides, in a contested case in which Albert R. Hulburt, New Haven ticket agent at Fields Corner, asked for a divorce from his wife, Frances A. Hurlburt, on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment, that he did not think Hurlburt was entitled to a decree, but reserved his decision.

Mrs. Hurlburt, who has a luxurious growth of red hair, contradicted statements made by her husband as to acts of cruelty committed by her.

To the attorney for Mrs. Hurlburt Judge King said: "It is apparent that your client has a quick temper from her facial expression and the color of her hair." Addressing himself to Hurlburt's lawyer, the judge said that Hurlburt had married his wife with his eyes open, and that if he provoked her by his talk that was his lookout.

FATHER O'CONNOR TO TALK ABOUT IRELAND

Representatives of subordinate branches of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic will attend the meeting to be held tonight by the Charles Stewart Parnell Council, in Ruggles Hall, No. 5 Ruggles street, Roxbury, to hear the Rev. Fr. O'Connor, who arrived from Ireland Wednesday, speak on conditions in that country. Mrs. Lawrence Hannan will preside.

FREE WIFE WHO DIDN'T CONSENT TO WEDDING

Bride of 16 Says She Did Not Know She Was Signing Marriage Certificate

Judge King of the Superior Court today annulled the marriage of Grace V. Sproule to Philip M. Holman on the ground that she did not consent to it and the marriage did not have the approval of her father and mother. Miss Sproule at the time being only sixteen years of age.

The young woman is the daughter of Thomas Sproule of East Boston ... Laconia, N. H. ... Sproule informed Holman ...

Miss Sproule told Judge King that on August 16 last Holman told her that they could break her parent's refusal to allow her to be married by going before a justice of the peace and taking out a marriage license. At that time she said she signed a paper, but did not know that it was a marriage certificate, as afterward it turned out to be.

The fence was no barrier for the crowd of enthusiastic [illegible] girls [illegible] fine thing climbed over it, big paste buckets on one arm and long handled brushes under the other.

SOUNDS OF TEARING.

As the bunch went scrambling over the top, there came a sound as of something tearing. There came a few screams and as they all stopped to the ground on the inside of the inclosure it was seen that the right leg of Margy Grant's overalls was ripped [illegible] up the inside of the [illegible] There were cries in other quarters, but the band didn't stop the bill posting.

"Straight Is the Way" posters went up as if by magic together with several "It's Up to You" posters. In the mixup a lot of paste was spattered around and on the girls but they didn't mind that nor did they seem to mind the cool, as several of them were in their bare arms.

The girls who aided in the cause were Margy Grant, Lorraine Garrison, Ruby Hart, Phyllis Reid, Susanne Chase, Dot Selfridge, Violet Lobell and Marcia Byron.

As this record-making picture [illegible] from the various news-

[illegible] wrestlers, and also newspaper cameras were clicking. "Straight Is the Way" will have its premier Monday in Boston ahead of any other city.

Just 14 Days at these prices for a final clearance

The man who said, "Why hurry to a clothing sale? They are like street cars—another along in a minute," was right and wrong.

They may "be along every minute" but only one will take you where you want to go, and you've got to get on that in time.

If your destination is clothes satisfaction and real value for your money, only Morse-made clothes will get you there. If you want them at the present less-than-cost prices you have just fourteen days left in which to buy. Saturday, March 5, at 6 p. m., this sale is over. Meanwhile our entire winter stock is being sold to make room for spring lines—and the prices, measured against the value in the clothes, are unequalled, anywhere.

GIRL, STRUCK BY AUTO, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Young Man Run Down With Her in Salem Accident Seriously Injured

Marion Hassell, twenty years old of No 9 Warren street, Salem, died in the Salem Hospital today from injuries received when she and Willis Blinn of Stoneham, were run down by an automobile on Loring avenue, Salem, early today. Blinn is on the dangerous list at the hospital, with a fractured hip and lacerations about the face and body.

The automobile was driven by Edward A. Todd and is owned by Mrs. William H. Grove of No 254 Lafayette street, Salem. Todd told the police that he had dimmed his lights to pass a car coming in the opposite direction, and did not see Miss Hassell or Blinn until too late to stop.

Todd appeared in court on a charge of manslaughter and was held in $5,000 bonds.

NEW ENGLAND FEATHERWEIGHTS IN TITLE BOUT TONIGHT

BATTLE 10 ROUNDS AT TRIPLE A

Shubert, Present Title Holder, to Meet Josephs, Former Champion, in Main Go

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Al Shubert, New Bedford, vs. Bobby Josephs, South End, ten rounds for New England featherweight championship.

Shaver O'Brien, South Boston, vs. Harry Silva, West End, ten rounds.

Mack Murphy, Atlantic, vs. Young Upey, New York, ten rounds.

Mickey Kirst, St. Paul, vs. Young Jimmy Gardner, Quincy, eight rounds.

By JACK CONWAY.

Al Shubert vs. Bobby Josephs!

These two little ring warriors are ready for their ten-round battle for the New England featherweight championship which will be staged by the Armory A. A. at Mechanics Building tonight.

The tussle has aroused a tremendous amount of interest among the fans and it is expected that a capacity crowd will be on hand to witness festivities.

When Shubert and Josephs met recently at the Arena [illegible] won a close decision after ten [illegible] rounds of milling. Naturally enough Josephs is now out to get revenge and incidentally win back the New England featherweight title.

There won't be many idle moments once festivities get under way [illegible] Each boy is out to win by as decisive a margin as possible and as a result the pace is [illegible] to be a fast one throughout the [illegible]

Shubert to Rely on Infighting

Shubert, of course, is expected to rely on his ability as an infighter to win. This is the asset that turned the tide of battle in his favor when he recently battled with the South End youth. At long range Josephs had the best of the going, but when the rivals got to close quarters honors went to the New Bedford puncher.

Josephs intends [illegible] from the sound [illegible] round. He [illegible] gressiveness and [illegible] will swing the tide of battle in his favor and enable him to regain his lost laurels.

South Boston vs. West End in Semi-Final

There is also considerable interest being displayed in the ten-round semi-final which will feature Shaver O'Brien of South Boston and Harry Silva who hails from the West End. O'Brien, one of the best of the [illegible] welterweights, has found it mighty difficult to secure opponents of late. Silva is not [illegible] he meets and is [illegible] ring with the South Boston [illegible]

Mack Murphy of Atlantic [illegible] with Young Upey of New York in another ten-round mill. The [illegible] ing eight round bout will [illegible] Kirst of St. Paul [illegible] Jimmy Gardner of Quincy.

Jack "Twin" to Work Hard for Victory

Jack (Twin) Sullivan won't lack for matches if he wins over Joe Thomas of Diamond Hill, R. I. in their ten-round bout at the Commonwealth A. A. tomorrow night. The veteran Cambridge boxer has received an offer from a Seattle Wash. promoter to box Willie Meehan. San Francisco wants him for a tussle with some good heavyweight, Buffalo is after him to meet Clay Turner, while Philadelphia seeks him for a tussle with one of our [illegible]

Sullivan [illegible] at his best to [illegible] night. [illegible] Tech gym putting on the [illegible] touches to his training.

Thomas [illegible] Sullivan a harder fight than George Robinson did recently. Joe is a veteran of the game, but he is nevertheless some eight years younger than his Cambridge rival. Jack Twin is forty-two, while Thomas is thirty-four.

Neddo Flanagan of Malden will meet Johnny Ford of East Boston in the semi-final of eight rounds while Mickey McGuigan of Belfast, Ireland will oppose Johnny Shepard of Woburn in another eight round affair. Johnny Donovan of Brockton and Al Murray of South Boston will box six frames.

How Rivals in New York Bout Shape Up

BOB MARTIN BILL BRENNAN.

PINKY GARDNER WEARS DOWN KETONEN

Former Overweight, so Title Does Not Pass as Result of the Bout

Pinky Gardner of Schenectady, weighing 160 pounds, defeated Waino Ketonen, world middleweight wrestling champion, by one fall in two hours 35 minutes 10 seconds at the [illegible] in the Grand Opera House.

A [illegible] the bout [illegible] referee was [illegible] Gardner [illegible]

Two minutes before the [illegible] Ketonen worked for and got a toe hold on Gardner [illegible] [illegible] across the [illegible] body.

Ketonen Uses Utmost Strength in Toe Hold

[illegible] both men's legs worked into a tangled trap with Pinky [illegible] Pinky's toe.

[illegible] Gardner was using his body weight on the [illegible] to force Ketonen [illegible] shoulder down. The crowd went mad over the situation.

Ketonen fighting, Gardner would [illegible] refused to let go the toe as Pinky [illegible] forced down the off shoulder by [illegible] Then Gardner [illegible] shoulder down. Burns [illegible] hand to give the decision but it was only a pin fall, Waino coming up.

Gardner's Second Roll Brought About Fall

The Finn was blind to his danger or else was sure Pinky must weaken [illegible] had beaten him [illegible] The shoulder went down and Ketonen was apparently astonished to learn he had lost the bout.

In the preliminary Young Hackenschmidt of New York showed himself a real wrestler in going to a 30 minute draw with Tony Ajax and promised to give John Kilonis more of the rough stuff than the Greek can offer, when they meet next week.

Their Favorite Sport--and Why

No. 17

JAMES A. TIGHE,

Chief Deputy U. S. Marshall.

My favorite sport is baseball.

Just now I am waiting for the call of the umpire to announce the batteries for the first professional game in our city this season.

Beside being an ardent baseball enthusiast, I used to play the game myself on the old four corners grounds on Columbus avenue, where the Youth's Companion building now stands.

My interest in baseball has been so keen that I have witnessed some of the World's Series played by teams outside of our own city, well as attending all the local World's Series games.

YALE TO MEET TECH IN TWO-MILE RELAY

The Yale two-mile relay team, which defeated Harvard at the B. A. A. games, will face Tech at the coming American Legion games. The Tech combination, however, will not be the same that lost to Syracuse at the Unicorn games. Coach Kanaly will now be able to choose the best half-milers at Tech, which he could not do then because he had more stress on the team that won over Harvard.

COMMERCE HIGH BEATS LATIN IN TRACK MEET

Commerce High defeated Boston Latin, 128 3-10 to 91 7-10, in the dual track and field meet just completed at the East Armory. Latin had 95 athletes in the meet, while Commerce had 163.

Each of the senior running events were keenly contested. Simmons, in winning the dash in auspicious style, gave Commerce its only senior first place yesterday. The final race of the matinee, the senior "300," was a sweet affair, Crosby of Latin running a front race all the way, but pushed hard by Mills of Commerce.

GILCHRIST'S

Men's All-Wool SUITS

Of High-Grade Tailoring and Materials Are Offered at

$24.50

Earlier in the season suits made from the same cloths were made to retail at prices up to $48.50, and were then considered mighty good values. Today, at $24.50, they are an exceptional money-saving proposition.

Frankly, it would have been an impossible task for us to offer such splendidly tailored suits at this price were it not for the fact that we secured a well-known maker's over-production at a great concession from the regular market price.

In the purchase are true blue, all-wool serge, unfinished worsted, in plain blue, brown or green; also fancy cassimeres and heather mixtures. Sizes to fit regular, short, stout or slim men.

"YOU saw my refugees out there? Don't they drill well? It takes patience, but I've accomplished a lot already. They're an [illegible] lot, left destitute when the [illegible] colony failed [illegible] State line. They're [illegible] from Holland and Belgium [illegible] a few of them speak [illegible]."

As she talked she [illegible] herself up, sword [illegible]

"I drill them [illegible] That's very [illegible] discipline. [illegible] others." [illegible] at the sword [illegible] perhaps this [illegible] Henry. [illegible] I'd—Oh, you'd [illegible] it! I've been [illegible] ungoverned [illegible] You have a right [illegible] of me. It's nothing [illegible] heirloom, at that. It belonged [illegible] husband's grandfather, [illegible] Count de la Pla[illegible] My [illegible] husband, that was. [illegible] you take it. That [illegible]" Her voice was rising shrilly; there were hot points of light in her eyes.

She broke off with

"Here's that man! Come in Mr Parker! Did you bring the w[illegible]?"

The lawyer bowed

"Then head it. Read it to my son-in-law."

Parker drew an envelope from an inner pocket.

Henry moved away. "No," he said unsteadily—"no, no! I don't want—I won't hear!"

Madame caught [illegible] sleeve, first with one hand [illegible] The sword clanged to the ground between them

Henry jerked away.

Madame staggered weakly. The lawyer caught her arm and steadied her.

"Read it!" she was crying. "Read it to him!"

"Really, Countess," murmured the lawyer, "if he—"

"Read it! He must hear it! It's my life now, that will! Oh, Henry you won't hold against me [illegible]—"

Now Henry turned [illegible] blaze at last in the gray blue eyes that for the moment [illegible] conquered the light in her black [illegible].

"No!" he cried. "I will not hear it. I'm not interested! You have wrecked every life you've touched! You are an evil thing. You [illegible] your husband. And you [illegible] the only woman I have ever loved. You destroyed my life. All I ask of you now is to leave me here. Understand? I want to be left alone! You've hounded me with detectives——"

"Oh, but Henry that was the only way I could——"

"There is no way you can see me again. I won't have it! I won't have you hounding me! Do you understand that? It's got to stop! I don't want you, or your filthy money! You dare talk [illegible] of suffering! What do you know of suffering? You killed a man and went free. They sent me to prison. What do you know about prisons—what they do to a man?"

His face was hotly red now. He beat a clenched fist against his chest. "You've destroyed my life. There's next to nothing [illegible]. My heart is gone. I'm a burnt-out case. And still you follow me [illegible] detectives after me [illegible] your ugly life on mine. You won't even let me try to make a poor little beginning in the world. I'm warning you I won't stand it! I'm warning you—I don't know what I might do! You're to leave me alone."

He rushed out of the room along the corridor, out over the absurd drawbridge; and down the road along the bluff walking very rapidly, breathing hard and muttering.

He was half way to the little flag station when an automobile passed him and stopped just ahead.

Parker opened the door

"Better get in," he said. "I fetched your coat and hat."

Henry stood off, trying to think. Already the passion was spent. The dull gray of his life was again in view ahead; the sort of thing one went miserably but quietly on with. He would of course go on with it like all the rest somehow. He was going back to begin life once more—So many, many times he had begun it—this time as a common reporter. He was lucky even to have that chance. * * * He got into the car, and put on his hat. It was, after all, the sensible thing, it was what one did.

Parker left him alone on the train; went up to the smoking car. And they walked in [illegible] silence across the city.

They stood on a busy corner. "I go up here," said [illegible]. "There's just this I've got to ask. Suppose it should be necessary for me to get in touch with you. There's nobody else. What am I to do?"

Calverly studied the pavement. He was beyond thought now—was spiritually empty. He had caught a cold, at some stage of his journey and now couldn't muster up a desire to fight it. He had touched bottom. So, not caring, he gave the man his false name and his boarding house address.

It seemed hardly to matter. At the moment he wasn't even sure he would go back. This notion grew as he walked the streets or sat in cheap little motion-picture houses. He couldn't feel that he had any roots at all. He considered starting farther West, traveling as far as his money would take him, then writing his way [illegible] Jane W[illegible] a [illegible] of [illegible].

[illegible] Well, I just wondered—I—I [illegible] to supper. I just thought I'd—"

It was [illegible]

ELDON PARR'S pew was filled [illegible] Willis [illegible] who [illegible] the houses of the [illegible]

[illegible] Martha [illegible] and was [illegible] in the act of flight.

"You're not going in?" she exclaimed.

"Of course we are!"

[illegible] stared at Alison in [illegible]

[illegible]

"Have you seen Phil?" Eleanor asked.

"Oh yes, he's in there and even he's [illegible]. And as I came out [illegible] Mr [illegible] was [illegible] up against the wall. He seemed perfectly stunned."

At this moment they were thrust apart. Eleanor quivered as she was carried through the swinging doors into the church.

"I think you're right," she whispered to Alison, "It is splendid. There's something about it that takes hold of one, that carries one away. It makes me wonder how it can be guided—what will come of it?"

They caught sight of Phil pushing his way towards them, and his face bore the set look of belligerency which Eleanor knew so well, but he returned her smile. Alison's heart warmed towards him.

"What do you think of this?" he demanded. "Most of our respectable friends who dared to come have left in a towering rage—to institute lawsuits, probably. At any rate, strangers are not being made to wait until ten minutes after the service begins. That's one barbarous custom abolished."

Strangers seem to have taken matters in their own hands for once," Eleanor smiled. "We've made up our minds to stay, Phil, even if we have to stand."

"That's the right spirit," declared her husband, glancing at Alison, who had remained silent with approval and [illegible] "I'll [illegible] know of a place where I can squeeze you in, near Professor Bridges and Sally, on the side aisle."

"Are George and Sally here?" Eleanor exclaimed

Mr Hodder," said Phil, "is converting the heathen. You couldn't have kept George away. And it was George who made Sally stay!"

Presently they found themselves [illegible] between a raw-boned [illegible] who [illegible] against his [illegible] [illegible] the wall. The [illegible] in which she was dressed [illegible] the [illegible] her apparent [illegible] those who surrounded her, her hands tightly folded in her lap. In their immediate vicinity, indeed, might have been found all the variety of types seen in the ordinary street car. An elaborately dressed female in front of them whose expansive hat brushed her neighbors, made audible comments to a stout man with a red neck which was set in a crease [illegible].

"They tell me Eldon Parr's pew has a gold plate on it. I wish I knew where it was. It ain't this one anyway, I'll bet."

"Say, they march in in this kind of a church, don't they," some one said behind them.

Eleanor, with her lips tightly pressed, opened her prayer book. Alison's lips were slightly parted as she gazed about her across the aisle. Her experience of the Sunday before, deep and [illegible] as it had been, seemed as nothing compared to this; the presence of all these people stimulated her inexpressibly, fired her; and she felt the blood pulsing through her body as she contrasted this gathering with the dignified, scattered congregation she had known. She scarcely recognized the church itself . . . She speculated on the homes from which these had come.

For a second the perfume of the woman in front, mingling with other less definable odors, almost sickened her, evoking suggestions of tawdry, trivial, vulgar lives, fed on sensation and excitement; but the feeling was almost immediately swept away by a renewed sense of the bigness of the thing which she beheld,—of which, indeed, she was a part. And her thoughts turned more [illegible] to the man who had brought it all about. Could he control it, subdue it? Here was opportunity suddenly upon him, like a huge, curving, ponderous wave. [illegible] or would it crush him remorselessly?

Sensitive, and quickened as she was, she began to be aware of other values, of the [illegible] spiritual hunger in the eyes of the woman in black [illegible] of barren, hopeless existences. And here and there Alison's look fell upon more prosperous individuals whose expression proclaimed incredulity, a certain cynical amusement at the spectacle; others seemed uneasy, as having got more than they had bargained for, deliberating whether to flee * * * and then, just as her suspense was becoming almost unbearable, the service began. * * *

How it had been accomplished, the thing she later felt, was beyond the range of intellectual analysis. Nor could she have told how much later, since the passage of time had gone unnoticed. Curiosities, doubts, passions, longings, antagonisms—all these seemed—as the most natural thing in the world—to have been fused into one common but ineffable emotion. Such, at least, was the impression to which Alison startlingly awoke. All the while she had been conscious of Hodder, from the moment she had heard his voice in the chancel; but somehow this consciousness of him had melted, imperceptibly, into that of the great congregation, once divided against itself, which had now achieved unity of soul.

The mystery as to how this had been effected was the more elusive when she considered the absence of all methods which might have been deemed revivalistic. Few of those around her evinced a familiarity with the historic service. And then occurred to her his explanation of personality as the medium by which all truth is revealed, by which the current of religion, the motive power in all history, is transmitted. Surely this was the explanation, if it might be called one! That tingling sense of a pervading spirit which was his—and yet not his. He was the incandescent medium, and yet, paradoxically, gained in identity and individuality and was inseparable from the thing itself.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

The Sensitive Lover

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

A year ago, at the home of a girl friend, I met her eldest brother. I was a case of love at first sight with both of us. We were to announce our engagement soon. Recently I went away on a vacation and stopped with friends. My fiance's brother, an old school chum, was there, and I went out with him several times, all of which A knew about from my letters.

After I returned another friend asked me to a ball game, to which I went, and has invited me to the theatre several times since, all of which I declined.

I had no intention of slighting my fiance, but since that time he refuses even to speak to me. How shall I win back his love. He always told me that he could not live without me and I know he does not go about with any other girl.

WORRIED.

WRITE him a note, telling him that for the sake of your former understanding, you hope he will not refuse to have a little talk with you. Then be as frank with him as you've been with me. If he is not jealous and unreasonable surely he will understand that you never meant to belittle him or your feeling for him. Don't let him continue with the impression that you have a tendency to be fickle.

Inviting Unhappiness

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

Kindly inform me if I'm wrong [illegible] respond to the [illegible] married man. [illegible] was formed under strange circumstances. He needed a friend and I stuck to him through thick and thin. Since then he has treated me with great deference and has invited me to visit him, a thing which I did a number of times.

He is a man of sterling integrity and is not disloyal to his wife, but is merely grateful. Nor do I want to ingratiate myself into his favor and come between them. However, I love him as a friend. He is twice my age.

IT won't work. Why invite unhappiness? There is no excuse for this man's placing his cheek against yours. He is, as you tell me twice your age and has had experience enough to tell him of the unwisdom of all this. It's fair neither to his wife nor to you. Don't permit it.

Weary of Marriage?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Before I married four months ago I was very popular and had a number of young friends. One of these has asked me to go out with him, but my husband objects, stating that it is not only unconventional, but absolutely unjust of me to ask permission of him to go out with any man he scarcely knows.

He insists that any man who would ask me to go out without first consulting his wishes is an unfit companion for me, and that his objection is not based on petty jealousy, but his interest to protect me. My parents agree with my husband, but they are very old-fashioned. I know the young man is all right.

Will you please let me have your opinion about this matter?

F. D.

WHY, if you are truly in love with your husband, should you have the slightest desire to accept this invitation? It certainly is in very bad taste to say the least. If the man wishes to show you any attention of a complimentary sort, he's free to invite you and your husband to dinner or theatre. But what he has done is to suggest that you are already a bit bored by the society of the man you married only four months ago. There's no rhyme or reason for the whole proceeding. You should have refused at once, telling him in all dignity that your husband is your escort. To invite your friends to your home and have them meet your husband and accept his hospitality is permissible. Such a course as this is not.

CHAPTER LV.

MORTIMER LAWRENCE'S father was dead

That was the thought that gripped Mary T[illegible] as she went off to her own room after her father had [illegible] the news to her. She did not [illegible] consider the daughter or wife of the dead man. Her primitive impulse was a longing to tell Mortimer how sorry she was for him

Then she remembered Irene, the girl who once had been on friendly terms with her, and whom she now regarded as an enemy. Only a few minutes ago Mary had spoken of liking to spite Irene

This state of affairs made it impossible for her to call on the bereaved daughter or write her a letter of sympathy. Of course, Mary and her mother would send to Mrs. and Miss Lawrence the conventional cards of condolence. Even these seemed a mockery. Such being the case, Mary could hardly write a letter to the son of the house expressing her sorrow for him

"I shall go a[illegible] Mort of course," Peter announced that afternoon when he had [illegible] of the luncheon which was his first meal today

He was back [illegible] Mary supposed his sympathy for his friend had prompted this result

"I wonder"—she ventured timidly, then paused

"What?" her brother [illegible]

"I wonder if it would be all right if you were to tell Mortimer that I sent him a message of sympathy."

Her brother [illegible] "That's a rather roundabout way of doing things, isn't it? Why not write to him, Molly?"

"Because," defiantly, "I won't write to his sister! And as I won't do this, I can hardly write to the brother. And, anyway, I don't want to."

"But you've got to do something."

"Yes.—I'll send cards to Mrs. Lawrence and [illegible] flowers to the funeral," with a little shudder

Peter looked as [illegible] as if the funeral referred to were to be his own

"Life's devilish unsatisfactory," he remarked

[illegible] answer, he spoke again

"If the Lawrences are responsible for getting you into what you call 'the smart set,' perhaps I am the one rather than you to cherish hard feelings against the family."

But Mary only shook herself free from his grasp and without a reply, walked angrily from the room

"Father just won't understand!" she muttered to herself as she went upstairs

Rules of the Identity Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Movies Picture Fiends' Identification Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to their readers who submit the largest percentage of correct identifications to the 120 pictures to be published in these two newspapers.

All employes of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and their families, and all moving picture players and persons connected with the moving picture industry are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The test will consist of 120 pictures of favorite moving picture players, to be printed, two each day, in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser. First picture Sunday, December 29, 1920.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each must contain only ONE identification to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each and every identification must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each identification blank.

Do not send your identifications in "list" form, i. e., do not write identifications under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct identifications, awards will be given to the persons submitting the largest percentage of correct identifications.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy in spelling, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way, the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their identifications before the end of the test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your identifications from day to day and at the end of the test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first identifications sent in after the test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All identifications must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Test Headquarters at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., either by mail or in person within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

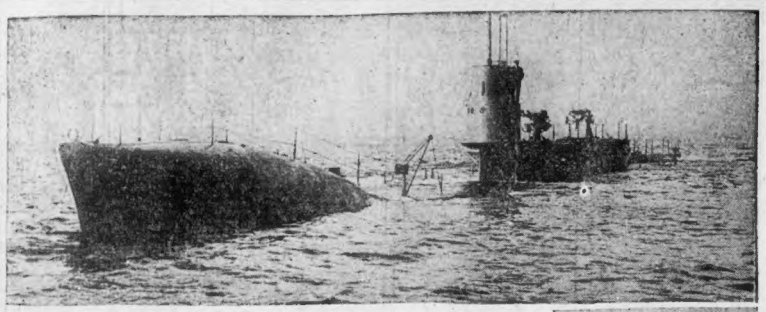
All envelopes or packages containing identifications must be legibly addressed as follows: "Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass. P. O. Box 2390," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all identifications will contain written or printed matter, if mailed it is absolutely necessary that the package be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as part of this charge goes to the postoffice as first-class matter. The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of identifications on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

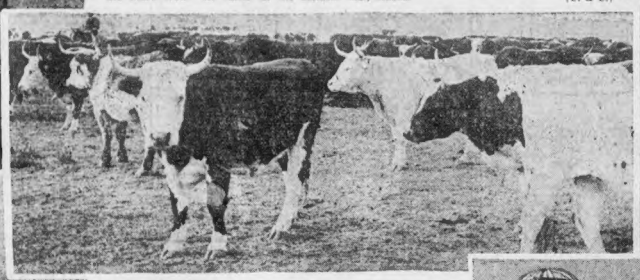
Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply or they may phone Main 3100 or call in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these conditions that they may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the test, and the decision of the Boston American Movie Test Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and conclusions now made or to be made.

GETTING THE ONCE OVER. Nothing but a razor could smooth things for this female impersonator in the Princeton Club show at Jordan Hall. (Turner)



ANOTHER MYSTERY OF THE DEEP—The British submarine, K-5, a new and advanced type of ocean scourge, recently went to the bottom with the entire crew. No cause for the accident has been discovered. The British Naval Office has denied that a Sinn Fein invention sunk the craft. The submersibles are being developed by all the great nations. (U. & U.)



WEALTH OF THE ANTIPODES—The cattle industry is one of the chief sources of Australasian prosperity. Some of the world's finest animals range the fertile undulating ranches "down under." Said ranches are as big as some of the European nations. (Keystone.)

ITALY'S NEW AMBASSADOR—Rolanda Ricci was evidently happy when the Duca di Acsta docked, and he stepped ashore. He proceeded directly to Washington. (U. & U.)

THE WATER'S FINE—But not the finest thing at Palm Beach. Miss Phyllis Hall of Mount Vernon caused some sensation when she introduced this bathing suit. Even the waves started dancing. (Int.)

LIKE SOME PEARLS?—This famous "Madame Thiers" collection is yours for $400,000. The French government is pressing a law so that the Louvre Museum can sell them and buy works of art. "Please, Daddy, buy me the necklace. It will be just as warm as my new Summer furs." (K. & H.)

RINGS ON HER FINGERS—And bells in her voice. Luisa Tetrazzini, noted soprano, affects jewelry more than the other opera singers. Has a wonderful collection of gems. (K. & H.)

SOME EXHIBITION—Among other things Irmgard Merkle exhibited her champion Pekinese, Young Chin Chow, at the recent dog show in the N. Y. Garden. (Central News)

HIS MELODY IS HUSHED—Ignace Paderewski, former Polish premier and world's greatest pianist, has announced his retirement from concert work. He's resting in this country. (U. & U.)

GOING DOWN!—Somebody moved the bridge, so the auto did a 35-foot "Brodie" into the excavation. Three of the five men in the car were seriously hurt, but nobody was killed. Happened in Cincinnati, where strange things happen. They won a pennant there once. (U. & U.)

DEPLETING THE TREASURY—William G. McAdoo, son-in-law of President Wilson, does a bit of shopping on a Mexican roadside. Mrs. McAdoo, who accompanied the former secretary of the treasury on a pleasure trip across the Rio Grande, now has a Mexican rug as a memento. Mrs. Bimbo, as Bob Murray would say, looks like a live saleswoman. (U. & U.)

STOP, LOOK, AND WATCH THE LIGHTS—Miniature beacons, like the one on the lighthouse, are now being used to regulate automobile traffic. Eighty warnings are flashed a minute in red, green and yellow lights. Watch your step, auto speeders! (International.)

Heirs Wanted

Missing Heirs are being sought throughout the world. Many people are today living in comparative poverty who are really rich, but do not know it. You may be one of them. Send for 400-page cloth-bound Index Book, "Missing Heirs and Next of Kin," containing carefully authenticated lists of missing heirs and unclaimed estates which have been advertised for, here and abroad. The Index of Missing Heirs we offer for sale contains thousands of names which have appeared in American, Canadian, English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh, German, French, Belgian, Swedish, Indian, Colonial and other newspapers, inserted by lawyers, executors, administrators. Also contains list of English and Irish Courts of Chancery and unclaimed dividends list of Bank of England. Your name or your ancestor's may be in the list. Send $1.00 (one dollar) at once for book, before 5th edition is exhausted. Established 1881.

Just A Touch Of Ice-Mint. PRESTO

Corns Wither and Lift Out With Fingers. No Pain.

Corn sufferers gather round; get right up close and listen, here's good news for you.

The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No humbug. Ice-Mint the new discovery made from a Japanese product is said to surely and quickly end all foot misery. Think of it; only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened callouses just shivel right up and lift off so easy. It's wonderful.

Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand on their feet all day.

Try it. Just ask in any drug store for a few cents worth of Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing like it.

COLDS

"Pape's Cold Compound" Breaks any Cold in Few Hours

Instant Relief! Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up any cold.

The very first dose opens clogged nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness. "Pape's Cold Compound" acts quick, sure, and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, contains no quinine—Insist on Pape's!

POSLAM LIKES BAD CASES OF FIERY ECZEMA

When Poslam takes hold of virulent and stubborn eczema, it soothes and cools at once, putting a stop to the terrific itching. On raw parts of the skin it feels immeasureably grateful. As Poslam continues to penetrate there develops just the healing process needed. Contrast the ease of healing with the severity of the trouble, and Poslam's work seems remarkable indeed. One ounce of Poslam is worth a pound of ointment less efficient.

Sold everywhere. For free sample write to Emergency Laboratories, 243 West 47th St., New York City.

Urge your skin to become fresher, clearer, better by the daily use of Poslam Soap, medicated with Poslam.

Don't Neglect Your Skin

Ladies—A few days' treatment with CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS will do more to clean up the skin than all the beauty treatments in creation. An imperfect complexion is caused by a sluggish liver.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Millions of people, old, young and middle age, take them for Biliousness, Dizziness, Sick Headache, Upset Stomach and for Sallow, Pimply and Blotchy Skin. They end the misery of Constipation.

Small Pill—Small Dose—Small Price

If I Could Have Placed

Confidence in Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound and took him at his word fifteen years ago I would have saved fifteen years of suffering with Catarrh, Liver, Stomach Trouble and Constipation. I advise all sufferers not to wait, but write for a treatment. A. Moting, Louisville, Ky.

Just address Dr. Burkhart, 621 Main St., Cincinnati, O., and a treatment will be forwarded you by return mail. Pay when relieved. All druggists. 30 days' treatment, 25c; 70 days, 50c.—Advertisement.

LAST PHOTOS IN MOVIE TEST TODAY

Work of Picking $5,000 Winners Will Be Rushed Speedily as Possible

Picture Nos. 119 and 120 in the $5,000 Movie Player Identification Test will be found today on the Picture Page.

These are the FINAL PICTURES!

It is now all over but the counting —and then the shouting.

Please, everybody, take the advice of your old friend the Movie Test Editor and begin now to rush your answers.

The time limit is 12 o'clock, midnight, next Monday.

At that hour, 12 midnight next Monday, your parcel of Identifications must be in your local postoffice or in this office. Parcels bearing a postoffice stamp later than that, or brought to the office after the midnight hour on Monday, will not be considered. See the Rules.

READ THE RULES AGAIN.

Take great care, first, that your own name and address are written in the upper left hand corner of the "address" side of the package, and that it is properly addressed to "Movie Test Editor, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. Box 239. And take the same amount of care that you have used sufficient postage. Please read the Rules on this subject.

No doubt you are all interested now in the Movie play TITLE Test, which will begin one week from Sunday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. There will be the same number of cash awards—219—as are to be distributed shortly in the PLAYER Test. Their total value will be the same, $5,000.

But the TITLE Test is still nine days ahead of us and the business before the present meeting is the Movie PLAYER Test. Get your bundles into the mails with all possible speed. Do not wait until Monday, unless circumstances compel it. If you MUST wait until Monday, make it Monday morning. To delay far into Monday evening will be risky. It is important that you write your name and address on the package as well as those of the Movie Test Editor. Put yours in the upper left hand corner.

BIG STAFF READY.

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser will keep you informed from day to day of the progress which is being made by the checkers. You will be interested in today's report that we have engaged an entire floor, not far from the office of publication, and that here a large staff of clerks will be established on Saturday for the big job.

And it WILL be a task! The Movie Test Editor says at least 30,000 parcels are coming in. He might be presumed to know, but his estimate is the lowest made by anybody in the office. The exact count should be available within a few days.

While we are waiting, your attention is directed to the Movie TITLE Test. Study the sample drawings which are printed today. See if you can tell what motion picture play is represented by each of them.

There will be sixty Test Pictures in the Movie Play Title Test, which will begin one week from Sunday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. One Test Drawing will be printed every day, on week days in the Boston American and on Sundays in the Sunday Advertiser.

TO PRINT LISTS OF TITLES.

Today's drawings, like yesterday's and Wednesday's, are offered merely as "samples." They are not part of the Test.

Participants in the NEW Test will be required to write the correct title under each Test Drawing. The money will be paid to those with the highest percentage of correct titles.

Long lists of correct titles will be printed every day throughout the Test. In these lists you will find the correct titles. Turn now to today's sample pictures. These samples almost cry out their correct titles, but if anybody is puzzled by them he will find the titles in this list:

| | |
|---|---|
| Officer 666. | The Slim Princess. |
| Blind Wives. | Stop, Thief. |
| The Devil. | 39 East. |
| Shoulder Arms. | Curtain. |
| The Fortune Hunter. | Twin Beds. |
| Broken Blossoms. | Deep Waters. |
| The Village Sleuth. | A Full House. |
| Civilian Clothes. | The Life of the Party. |
| Suds. | Flying Pat. |

TRY OUT YOUR FRIENDS.

Try one of your bright young friends on these sample pictures. Note how many your friend falls down on. A young friend of ours says the trouble with the above sample list is that some of the plays in it are comparatively new and have not been seen everywhere. Well, our favorite picture house is one of the smallest in Boston and we have seen seven of the plays named above and know, of course, all about Miss Pickford's success in "Suds."

However that may be, you ought not to go far wrong with the Test Drawing before you and the Official List of Play Titles to refer to. The official list will be printed every day.

Two hundred and nineteen awards in the NEW Test, just as there were in the old! All to be paid in cash, and amounting in the aggregate to $5,000!

Looks to the Movie Test Editor—who will be out of a job when he finishes this story—like a case of Fun and Money. Oceans of fun and loads of money!

Tomorrow, the complete story of the Movie Title Test, how it will be conducted, how the money will be distributed and other interesting details.

EDITOR'S ONE REQUEST.

The Movie Test Editor, before he tells you good-bye, wants to thank everybody for their patience, kindness and indulgence. He hopes you have had a good time. He has enjoyed every minute of the task. He has but one regret. He wishes he could mail out a (good) check for $1,000 tonight to every one of you!

And that reminds him of a LAST WORD!

Do not forget to place your Movie Player Test pictures in the mail at the earliest possible moment. Never a better time for the "Do It Now!" motto. Gates close at midnight on Monday!

Good luck!

LUCK AIDS STAR IN TRIP UP THE LADDER

Miss Mildred Richardson Is Publicity Expert as Well as Leading Woman

By FRED J. McISAAC, Dramatic Editor.

One of the most interesting things about Mildred Richardson is the way she manages to get her picture into the paper. To be sure the leading lady of the "Broadway Brevities" is very pulcritudinous, but she has rivals in that line. When it comes to getting single, double and triple-column pictures, she has no rival; she is unique.

Everywhere you turn, every magazine you pick up, every newspaper you read, you find something about Mildred Richardson. If you look carefully at this page you will probably find her restful and candid countenance gazing at you somewhere about, and you will enjoy the day better.

Upon being presented to Miss Richardson at the Shubert Theatre last evening I asked her formula for this success. Miss Richardson was dressed for the North Pole scene, wearing what the stage director of the Brevities, who has never been north of the Bronx, probably thinks is a tasteful and comfortable costume for those latitudes.

A DAZZLING COSTUME.

Around her neck she wore a collar of white ermine—or pussycat—about three inches wide, and around the bottom of the quite lofty skirt was another fringe of the same material. The climate being suggested in this manner, Miss Richardson's costume gave it no further heed. It was the sort of evening affair that debutantes are accused of wearing at a college prom by the "greasy grinds" who do not get invited. But as an exhibition of Miss Richardson it was faultless.

"How do you account for your popularity with the newspapers?" I inquired after I had carefully written the above description of her costume in my commodious and ever ready note book."

Mildred grinned. She has a nice tom-boyish grin, with large quantities of even and very white teeth.

"I suppose it is because I make a practice of being nice to everybody I meet, as you never can tell who will be a reporter. Of course there couldn't be as many reporters as say they are when they meet an actress, but it is surprising what unlikely subjects who are introduced by the press agent turn out to be gentlemen of the press. And then I always aim to have a large quantity of attractive protographs. They say I photograph well."

HAD LOTS OF LUCK.

"Tell me something about your career."

"As though you didn't know it. You've written me up every season since I began coming to Boston."

"Never mind. Pretend I don't."

"Well," said Miss Richardson, "I have had lots of luck. My very first job was understudy to the prima donna in 'Chin Chin,' with Fred Stone. And no sooner had I learned the part than the prima donna got ill and I went on in her place."

"Did you have anything to do with her illness?"

"Nothing was proved," said Miss Richardson, demurely.

WAS IN THE FOLLIES.

"Then after a couple of seasons with Fred Stone Mr. Ziegfeld gave me a chance in the Follies, and I sang the prima donna part in that show for two seasons. Now I am with the "Broadway Brevities," and apart from having a bad cold due to the stage door being open when I wore my North Pole costume, my story is told."

"Thank you," said I replacing the note book and knocking over a bottle of perfume as I rose.

"Would you like some photographs?" asked Miss Richardson, opening a trunk and taking out two or three hundred.

"One, please."

"Which one?"

"Any one." She shuffled them, I drew one, and here it is."

REDUCING FORCE AT NEWPORT STATION

Newport, R. I., Feb. 18.—Orders to reduce the civilian personnel of the navy have hit the clerical force of the Torpedo station here. Five aditional employes will be discharged at the end of the month. The army has lost a number of enlisted men here, ordered "separated from the service."

Boston Banking Situation Is Sound

The Bank Commissioner has closed the Tremont Trust. This move has been made only after the most careful and cautious examination of conditions both in the bank itself and the surrounding circumstances. The closing of this institution is in the interest of its depositors, of the banking community and the public.

There is no cause for alarm in this action by the commissioner. It should cause everyone to feel that their assets are being carefully guarded.

The situation should be met calmly and sanely. Don't get excited and above all don't rock the boat. The banks of Boston and Massachusetts are in sound condition.

Farmers Need to Learn the Value of Salesmanship

A few years ago California raisin growers had a hard row to hoe. It made little difference whether they had a big crop or a little crop or whether times were good or bad. The raisin growers made little money (or lost money) no matter what the general conditions were. Now the California raisin growers make money whether their crop is a big one or a little one, and whether times are good or times are bad.

The reason is that the raisin growers no longer sell their crops individually to whatever middleman they can find to sell to. The raisin growers have a compact organization with competent business men at the head, and this organization takes the entire crop of the members and markets it to the best advantage. The organization also advertises and uses every legitimate method to increase the use of raisins.

The result is that where men were tearing up raisin vineyards in 1912, other men are now planting more and more acreage to raisin crops, and the expectation is that the total output will be increased at least 30 per cent. in the next five years and doubled by the end of the next ten years, with the raisin farmers steadily making good profits.

Now, then, if Eastern farmers would only imitate the good business sense of these Pacific coast raisin farmers there would not be a deserted farm east of the Allegheny Mountains. And the business of farming on the Atlantic coast would again be profitable and inviting. This last Fall hundreds of thousands of bushels of splendid apples rotted on the ground under the trees within a radius of a hundred miles around New York city, the greatest apple market in the world. And while this splendid apple crop was thus rotting under the trees, apples grown in Oregon and Washington and California, and shipped 3,000 miles, were selling readily at eight and ten cents apiece in New York markets.

This ridiculous and injurious situation was entirely due to the fact that the Pacific coast apple growers long ago recognized that organization and salesmanship were just as necessary to the growers of apples as they are to manufacturers of other goods, while the apple growers of New York and New England have either refused to learn, or have been unable to learn, this simple lesson in the school of good business.

Special Privilege Fears Democratic Measure

William H. Sayward, representing the Master Builders' Association, opposed the establishment of a State fund for workingmen's compensation insurance upon the extraordinary ground that it might be successful and, if it were successful, it would lead to other experiments in the same direction by the government and thus would widen the government's functions in the direction not desired by the business interests represented by Mr. Sayward.

This reminds us very much of the kind of opposition which is at the bottom of all the slanders against the Russian government. That element of our possessing classes which enjoy unjust special privileges constantly subject to the hazard of increasing intelligence on the part of the masses of the world have been terribly afraid that some of the social, political and economic experiments now going on in Russia may prove successful and may, by the force of its successful example, compel its adoption in other countries and thus threaten the existence of the profitable special privileges which these minority interests enjoy.

The game of the big exploiting interests is, by blockade of Russia and the keeping of her in continuous war, to put a burden upon her government that no government in the world could stand, and then when it failed, to tell the ignorant majority of humanity that it failed because it tried impossible political, social and economic experiments.

New Standard Test for Gas Is Now in Order

The war is over. Economic conditions are fairly well stabilized. There is no longer any need of taking out of gas the enriching substances which are used for munitions. So we suggest to the Department of Public Utilities that it is time to consider a new standard test for the quality of gas as a domestic utility.

It is bad enough to endure the present prices of gas, but when the quality, too, is bad, it is like rubbing salt into an open wound.

BROADEN OUT

If you consider your opinions infallible, you will make little advance till you get rid of your self-conceit.

While you think your ideas always right, you won't learn from others.

The only chance a conceited person has of improving is the forming of correct solutions through their own correct deductions.

But this source of knowledge will not take you far.

None has sufficient brains to analyze every matter which comes up and to arrive at a correct answer or position relative to all problems from within.

The self-pleased man is not open to conviction—will not listen to argument and so he cannot be convinced of errors. He has but one mind working for him.

The man with strong mind, well balanced, allows for mistakes he might make, by getting the best lights from others which he can command on the perplexing questions and then sifts and weighs and considers and finally arrives at a conclusion which is not puffed up because he gives credit where due.

Trust such a man to come somewhere near being right.

More Truth Than Poetry

The Reward of Gentleness

By S. E. KISER

WHEN Allison Delancey Jones
Was coming on through plastic youth
He learned to speak in gentle tones,
And gained a deep respect for truth.
"Remember, son," his dad would say,
"That noisy boastfulness is rude;
Don't stand in other people's way,
Be careful never to intrude.

"DON'T interrupt when others speak,
Nor be too sure of this or that;
Take no advantage of the weak,
Say nothing that is trite or flat;
Be silent rather than to bore
With speech devoid of wit or grace;
Show proper deference before
Those whom you find in power and place.

"FOOLS only are unduly proud—
Be on your guard against conceit;
Let not your protest be too loud
If others trample on your feet.
Of all the manly attributes
The first and best is gentleness;
The plucking of forbidden fruits
Is never followed by success."

HE learned his lessons well; his ways
Were cautious, truthful, modest, kind;
He had no stomach for self-praise,
But grew up gentle and refined.
He gets a pittance from a boss
Whose creed is simple and direct:
"Be rough! until you've got across;
Learn manners after you connect."

Mr. B. Baer

NEW CROP OF LOANS

EUROPE owes us so much velvet that they can't start counting it. Looks as if they never will. We have three billions worth of gilt-edged atrocities hocked in Belgium. England is trying to drop the ciphers off $4,000,000,000. France thinks that, three more billion is a present for her golden wedding from our Treasury Department and Italy is praying that another billion is the candles on her birthday cake.

A FOOL and his money are soon loaned to Europe. Checkers-Chessia is under our skin for sixty million. That's only a fraction. Even Cuba, Liberia, Siberia, Picoeria, Gumboshka and Trikania owe us plenty jack. The funny thing about some of those countries is that you never hear of them until they walk out of Washington with the silver knives and spoons.

DELIRIA-TREMANIA is second-mortgaged right up to the handle and threatens to borrow off somebody else if we don't kick forth with more collateral for her pawn tickets. If Europe transfers her financial affections, we will be lonely as a ukulele with nobody to pick on it and bust its strings.

RUM-NOSIA, Jugo-Hootchia and all those other flimsy countries that are only held together by a hyphen, all think that America is the home of the brave and the free. Brave financiers and free jack.

ANY TIME they want to start a fight, they figure on words by the King and music by the duPont Powder Works.

FIGURING on war and peace, it would have been cheaper to keep on fighting. Soon as they sign the armistice, it's lunch time in the zoo. If they don't throw the piece of fish to the walrus, he keeps roaring until the U. S. comes across with a couple more billion and chalks the amount on the sands at low tide.

WE had a lot of doughboys kissed by French generals over there. But if we knew there were going to be international and perpetual alimony paid on the transaction we could have saved money by letting our own Congress kiss 'em.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—I judge from your writings that you have never quite gotten over your "small town" days, and that the things that are precious to me because I have just left a "small town" are still precious to you. And that is why I write to you.

I have only been a little while in New York. I came here to make my start in the great race of life. I am a thousand miles away from home, and in this city of strangers sometimes I grow homesick and discouraged and want companionship and advice. I wonder if you wouldn't some day write me a little word of cheer in your column. I would be so glad if you would, and I would feel that somewhere among the millions I had a friend.

H. T. D.

MY DEAR H. T. D.
IF I were an Edison,
OR A Henry Ford,
I MIGHT expound.
UPON THE means.
THAT YOUTH should take,
TO WIN success.
AND SAY to you.
THAT IF you let DISCOURAGEMENT
TAKE HOLD of you,
YOU'LL LOSE the race.
I MIGHT say that
AND SETTLE back.
WELL SATISFIED.
WITH MY advice.
BUT THAT'S no good.
FOR ILLS like yours.
AND I'LL not preach.
BUT SIMPLY say.
IF IT should happen
THAT A day should come
AND YOU should wake.
WITH COURAGE gone.
AND WATCH the millions
RUSHING BY,
AND OF them all,
NO ONE is friend.
I'LL LET you come.
AND TALK to me.
OF FOLKS back home.
AND I'LL probably pan you.
FOR BEING silly.
AND LOSING your nerve.
BUT, ANYWAY.
WE'LL HAVE a good time.

I THANK you.

The Spectator

VAUDEVILLE.

SARA BERNHARDT has gone into Vaudeville. She appeared on a program the other evening in Paris between a dance and a slap-stick and gave one of her classic recitals. She went through her entire performance seated in a chair, as on account of the loss of a leg she could not move.

The audience was delighted.

The tough, leathery and conventional critic is horrified. That vast group composed of those who think merely with the surface of their minds, exclaim that the once Divine Sara must have fallen pretty low to be in vaudeville.

But has she?

Or has she not really demonstrated the fact that she is a queen in her calling because she can charm the great commons?

Is not the test of true artistry "real mastery" whether you can put such human power into your work that it will "get over" to the masses?

Ernest Thompson Seton, the naturalist, the idol and delight of all boys and girls who love outdoors, the chief of the Woodcraft League, and heretofore star lecturer at colleges, chautauquas and the highest-browed woman's clubs, has also made a tour of the country in Vaudeville. And the fact that he has made a hit and that the ten, twenty, thirty folk have been delighted with his work only proves that after all his art is real and not a pose.

Why do not the greatest artists, orators and preachers go into Vaudeville? There they will find the "real people." There they can get over their message to the very heart of the nation.

The answer is, in most cases, that Vaudeville will not have them. They cannot measure up.

For the fact is that a deal of entertainment that will pass in a lecture course is entirely too sloppy for Vaudeville.

In Vaudeville every word must count. There must be sure hand and true tone and no rambling.

To get hold of your audience, rivet their attention and deliver your message in fifteen minutes, is what not one lecturer, actor or preacher in a thousand can do.

People like preaching. And the only reason the Vaudeville managers do not star a preacher is because there is none who can do the business.

In Vaudeville you have simply got to make good. No fame nor blurb can save you.

If a bishop were to speak, his robes would help him not at all, his dignity and place would avail him nothing, and unless he was interesting his audience would walk out on him or cry, "Get the hook!"

The President of the United States or the King of England would not be booked unless he could show his "act" was good.

The Vaudeville audience is the keenest, shrewdest and most honest crowd in America. They respect nothing, fear nothing.

Their human interest is reduced to its bare bones. No bluff nor snobbery goes, in the long run.

And do not imagine that Vaudeville audiences are low and coarse. There's a stricter test of propriety on their stage than on the Chautauqua platform.

If I were in the business of preaching the Gospel, I would be prouder of being able to hold and thrill a Vaudeville audience than a Church convention or a revival meeting.

For there you simply must make good. There is no other way.

My hat is off to Sara and to Ernest.

Canefields as Gold Mines

By Edith Davis

MANILA, P. I., Dec., 1920.

"A GOOD sugar plantation is worth more than an ordinary gold mine!"

The observation was made by a fellow-voyager at the Visayan rail as we approached Iloilo, portal to the fabulously prosperous Philippine sugar country. Brilliant with tinted houses, pink and pale blue, sea-green and yellow, the town appeared. Steamers at the quay hoisted aboard structural steel and farm machinery. The United States sold twenty million dollars in steel and iron and their manufactures to these islands in the past year. Native lorchas brought in white cargoes. Iloilo is the principal port for foreign shipment of the sugar grown on nearby Negros Island.

Thirty-six million dollars' worth of sugar the Philippines raised last year. This nearly doubled the value of the preceding year's crop. The latter, by comparison with the average of the previous five-year period, showed a gain of 75,000 acres of cane lands cultivated, 118,800,000 in production and in value $4,500,000.

"Fortunes in jewels," remarked my fellow-passenger, "have been purchased from La Estrella del Norte's Iloilo branch by the planters."

The four hotels of Iloilo overflowed with opulent patrons. We had to lodge at a posada. As in all the inns of the East, life went forward in the open, upon a balcony that rambled around the upper story. By the dim, colorful glow of Chinese lanterns we dined there. It seemed enchantingly Oriental and tropical—and far away from home.

"The telephone, Senora!" said the Filipino boy. In a recess of the balcony, he switched electric current into a bulb above my head. Its light flashed upon the words under the mouthpiece: "The Leitch Electrical Co., Genoa, Illinois."

"Sugar prices will continue high for long," predicted a sugar-house man. "The sweets demand booms. Each of us Americans consumes ninety-three pounds of sugar a year. A decade ago it was seventy-nine. Six million, three thousand pounds daily the United States uses in candy and soft drinks. When we first occupied the Philippines, the United States took only one-quarter in value of their sugar. Before the world-war, we bought three-quarters.

"In the Philippines, on the other hand, some of the richest lands and those best suited for sugar growing have not been touched. Only one-eighth of Negros' arable land is occupied by the king product. Owing largely to primitive methods of cultivation the Islands give but a light yield of cane. Java and Hawaii yield five tons per acre, Cuba and Porto Rico two, and Texas is as rich as any of these, the Philippines raise only three-quarters of a ton. Power-farming equipment is being introduced to increase this. Twelve hundred and eighty-five tractors the United States sold to the planters in the past year and a half. Modern methods. It is anticipated, will in the comparatively near future bring the Islands' annual production up to a million tons. The sugar industry in the Philippines is only in its infancy."

Letters to the Editor

Talmud Society Gives Thanks

Editor Boston American:

In behalf of the Talmud Society, I desire to express my thanks for the impartial attitude you have taken in the "Henry Ford versus the Jew" question.

Until Henry Ford's reply in the Boston American the Jew, not knowing Mr. Ford's reasons for his sudden attacks, gave him the credit of the foul words and attributed some personal slight on the part of an individual or two to his rage against a whole people.

Now, however, not even a semblance of reason is apparent. The Jew is the world's worst war victim. Not even the horrors of pogroms can even faintly describe the war's aftermath to the Jew. Base passions, hardly restrained in peace, are loosed by war and the Jew is the first victim.

But what a travesty and what a tragedy. A late news report states that of the forty richest men of this country—one only is a Jew, and he far down in the list. One Rothschild in Europe, the family divided in allegiance and residing in different countries, and to men of the stamp of Ford every Jew is a Rothschild. Hardly a Jew in this country who does not receive pitiful imploring letters from Europe from his brethren, begging for the bare necessities of life.

As a rule the non-Jew attacks the Jew, whether it is the protocols or anything else, he goes to that vast encyclopedia of Jewish lore and learning, the Talmud, takes a sentence or a word out of its text, distorts it to suit his purpose and pleads his case out of the Bible of the Jew itself. The Talmud Society has, therefore, taken the democratic, American, fair-play method of placing the encyclopedia containing the Jews' learning, morals, customs, religious practices and the like, and placing the Talmud in the open places where all may read.

Thanking you, we beg to remain,

Very truly yours,

THE TALMUD SOCIETY.
Myer Block, Secretary.
